Antioch gets $650,000 grant for path program

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

The children of Antioch will be the main benefactors of a $650,000 grant awarded by the State of Illinois for two projects within the village.

State Rep. Timothy Osmond, in announcing the grant awarding, said, "I'm happy our governor supports education and safety. We and our children are fortunate."

"The budget which the governor signed included a lot of educational and safety projects, which the legislature and the governor supported," Osmond explained.

"This will make our community a little better and safer," Osmond added.

The grant is to be used for the construction of bike and walk paths near the existing Antioch Upper Grade School and the planned new school at Depot St.

and Deep Lake Rd.

The village will be required to submit engineering specifications to the state, along with additional paper work. This will enable the state to monitor the project. At the same time, it allows the village to maintain its accountability to ensure the funds are used properly.

"I'm not sure how long it will take to get the paper work back from Springfield, but my office has already requested the appropriate forms be sent to the village," Osmond said.

Village Manager Tim Wells

expressed his appreciation to the various individuals, community groups and businesses who sent letters to Springfield encouraging the passage of the grant.

Mayor Marilyn Shineslug added her appreciation when the village board was officially informed at its June 7 session.

Wells anticipates construction on the project to begin soon, with completion in time for the fall opening of school.

Dist. 34 summer school registration continues

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

The Antioch District 34 summer school program begins classes Monday, June 14, at Upper Grade School. Classes will continue through July 9. There will be no classes on Friday, July 2, and Monday, July 5.

Three class sessions are offered at 55 minutes each between 8:30-11:30 a.m.

A two-hour activity class will be offered each afternoon from noon-2 p.m.

Students enrolled in both morning and afternoons are requested to bring a sack lunch. No transportation will be provided by the school district.

Classes include remedial programs to assist recommended students who are interested in gaining additional academic assistance in particular core subject areas.

Enrichment programs allowing students to select specific courses according to their interest level are available.

Activity courses will be intertwined with cognitive academic and enrichment classes. Several 4-week activity camps with different emphasis are planned.

Limited enrollment is on a first-come, first-serve basis. If a class receives insufficient enrollment, as deemed by Dist. 34 officials, the class may be canceled. To help ensure class offerings, early registration is strongly encouraged.

The summer school program is entirely financially self-sufficient, receiving no state subsidy funding.

Fees for a 4-week remedial or enrichment class is $50. The fee for a 2-hour activity course is $100. Students enrolled for all day sessions, totaling 18 days, will pay $250.

To register, or for information, contact Eric Skoog at Antioch Upper Grade School office, 800 Highview, or phone 838-8311.

Beer in the 'Bay'

Lakes area's first brew pub offers four new brews

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Brewster Laura Woodford has rolled out the barrels of fresh, new brew at Columbia Bay Brew Pub.

These are good moments for her and customers with amber hues all around.

"We are doing wonderfully," she said. "We've sold over 1,500 glasses of beer in six weeks."

It is beer that is made by the only female brewster known to be in the Midwest.

It is beer that has brought people to the pub searching for the fresh taste of a locally made beer in the Chain O' Lakes region's only brew pub.

Woodford said that people who love beer have been hearing about the place from as far as Wisconsin. "We had a home brew club come in last night," Woodford said. "They got tired of hearing about us and had to come and see."

The results have all been positive.

Columbia Bay Brew Pub is a restaurant that has emerged from the established Hoff's Columbia Bay Restaurant, 38744 North Highway 59 near Lake Villa. Woodford said that the fine-dining experience remains, but the excitement of locally-made beer and pub grub is also now available.

All four new beers created by Woodford have been available since Wednesday, April 7. She is making beers she has named Strawberry Blonde, Heavenly Light, Chester's Choice, and Emerick's Gold.

"I've got two new recipes we're going to make up next," Woodford said. One will be a black beer.

"Laura was very insistent that we make a light beer, but it is not common for a small brewer to make a light beer," said James Surwill. He is a brewmaster with W. M. Sprinkman Corporation, the company that provided the brewery equipment that Woodford uses. He serves as her mentor.

"It was something anti-brew pub," Woodford said. She said she knew that many of her customers like a light beer so she was willing to create a beer she named Heavenly Light.

"It was against the ethos," said Surwill.

"I think the light beer was a good call," said Brian Sprinkman.

Chamber to fill Toft with Arts & Crafts

By MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Staff Reporter

Toft Street in Antioch will be taken over by sculptures, paintings, custom jewelry, afghans and blankets, among numerous other items as the Annual Arts & Crafts Faire comes to town Saturday and Sunday, June 19 and 20.

The traditional summer season kickoff event will have 100 booths with artisans and crafters coming in from throughout the Midwest. The Antioch Chamber of Commerce coordinates and promotes the highly successful and attended event.

Show hours will be until 5 p.m. Saturday, 4 p.m. Sunday, with openings at 10 a.m. each day. Tents will provide cover for vendors as well as attendees in case of inclement weather.

The Village Board has authorized the closing of Toft Street from 3 p.m. Friday, June 18, through Sunday evening.

A great opportunity to take dad or grandpa out on Father's Day weekend, the show also offers a chance for some last minute shopping for that special unique gift.

A wide reasonably priced merchandise range will be available. Included items expected to be available are fine art, country crafts, clothing, photography, floral arrangements, furniture, wood crafts and many other uniquely creative items.

Sharon Manka, last year's feature artist, will be returning with her wildlife framed art.

A farmer's market is included with fresh fruits and vegetables, many locally grown, available.

Food and liquid refreshments will be available as well.

Of the exhibitors, approximately 70 percent are returning which further credits the show's success.

Toft Street is one block west of Main Street. Parking will be available in three new lots behind the stores on the east side of Main Street between Park Avenue and Orchard Street.

Persons attending are encouraged to clip coupons in the Antioch News, complete the information and deposit them at the Chamber tent. Chamber $250 gift certificates will be awarded to winners.

Questions concerning the weekend's activities should be directed to the Chamber office 395-2233.

Board approves a gift ban

A village ordinance prohibiting solicitation or acceptance of gifts was briefly discussed at the last Antioch village board meeting.

Village Attorney Kenneth Clark recommended going with a proposed version put out by the Illinois Municipal League. "Their version provides further clarification of a rather confusing act," Clark explained.

The ordinance, required according to state statute, must be in effect by July 1.

I'd like to know where all these gifts are anyway.

Marilyn Shineflug
Mayor

Due to the possible court challenges the state statute is expected to bring, Clark explained if "it is found 'unconstitutional,' Antioch's ordinance would automatically lapse.

"I'd like to know where all these gifts are anyway," quipped Mayor Marilyn Shineflug.

Clark plans to present the revised ordinance to the board at its June 21 meeting for adoption. — by Michael H. Babicz och Grade School physical education instructor, will oversee the day's events. A wide variety of activities and fitness oriented games are planned.

Emphasis will be on fitness, cooperation and fun, with basic sports skills also to be covered.

Scott Staver, a certified Anti-

Alumni return to tour old ACHS

By JACLYN GRAHAM
Staff Intern

Everyone that has been through high school has favorite memories. For about forty alumni of Antioch Community High School, those memories were evoked one last time in the halls of their beloved school on June 5, 1999.

The oldest part of ACHS, the 1915 building that served as the original high school, will be demolished during this summer. This tour was the last chance for alumni to visit the classrooms and hallways of the original 1915 building.

Current ACHS Principal Jim Love led the nostalgic observers through the original building.

This structure has been used continuously since 1915, most recently for industrial arts and family and consumer science classes. These areas of the school's curriculum will be housed in the addition now under construction.

Instead of just a quick walk through the old hallways, this tour became a walk down memory lane. The observers ranged from having graduated from ACHS in 1930 to 1983. Many of the alumni were from the 1940's classes, and many spoke of the generations upon generations of their families that have gone to ACHS.

Eleanor Hauser, class of '44, pointed out that, "I graduated from here 55 years ago on this exact date, my son graduated here 25 years ago on this date, and the class of '99 is graduating today." She mentioned her grandfather and father were janitors for ACHS in the 1930's and '40's.

Another family was there with history: A mother that graduated in 1944, her son in 1979, and her daughter in 1983. After 1915, the school had an addition put on in 1928 for an auditorium and administrative wing. In 1950 for a gym area and the front section of the building, in 1960 for the cafeteria and science and math wing, and in the '60's for the north gym, math and social studies wings, and the commons.

Effinger used to live five houses away from ACHS, and now she is the first one next to it due to all of the additions over the years.

A consensus was reached everyone said that the halls and classrooms looked much smaller than they remember. "It used to be bigger when I was a kid," said Carol Effinger, class of '43.

The corridors are now dark, musty, and worn, awaiting their eventual destruction. Class of '45 alumna Mabel Lou Hunter Weber said, "It's time to take it down—all done. But it's amazing how well it's stood."

The classrooms in the 1915 building are in need of large amounts of repair and renovation. ACHS Superintendent Dennis Hockney said, "It's time to get rid of it. It probably outlived its usefulness 10 to 20 years ago."

Although the tour was to allow one last look at the school where these people made their lifelong friendships and memories, it was also to recall the good old days, not just to remember which room English was held in and which one was for math class.

Accordingly in the 1940's, an entire graduating class consisted of 40 to 50 students.

Everyone floated through the rooms and halls as they pleased, taking in and reflecting on years past. Old friends reminded each other of funny things they used to do, like sing in the locker room or slide down the stairway banisters.

"Oh, the fun we had," said Weber. She joked, "now if only I would've applied myself."

The tour group also stopped outside to take one last admiring look at the beautiful ivy that has been on the 1915 building for so many years. This is just another part to be demolished this summer, in order to make way for new and improved facilities for the quickly growing Antioch community.

Two ACHS alumni, Mabel Lou Hunter Weber (left) and Carol Effinger (right), take a seat in front of the ivy on the 1915 school building one last time before it is torn down this summer.

BREW: Lake County brewery features four well-known, home-grown brews

He is the engineer who was responsible for the design and installation of the Columbia Bay Brew Pub system.

Emerick's Gold is made from a malted barley roasted to a chocolate color to create a smooth agreeable flavor.

"As you can tell, it's not named for its color," said Surwill. "This is the darkest beer they make."

The flavor is described as slightly sweet with roasty overtones.

Customers who want to try one of everything can do so with a taster tray that provides small servings of each beer available.

There are other special aspects of Columbia Bay Brew Pub other than the skills and instincts of Brewster Woodford. In the beer world, brewmasters are male; brewers are female.

Surwill said their firm has built brewery's all over the country and in the Philippines. "We've built about 15 breweries, total," he said. "Goose Island is a customer of ours."

Goose Island Brewery is a long-time, established Chicago micro-brewery well known and widely distributed in the Chicago region.

Surwill said that a micro-brewery makes and packages its beer for distribution throughout an area. A brew pub makes beer and sells it on the premises, although people can take home a growler filled with beer for consumption at home.

One special feature of Columbia Bay Brew Pub is its small production facility. It is uncommon to be so small.

"This is a three-and-a-half barrel brewhouse," he said. There are 31 gallons of beer in a barrel.

"We've never built a three-and-a-half barrel brewery. It worked out great for us," Sprinkman said. "Before prohibition, there was a bar like this on every corner."

Columbia Bay Brew Pub returns to a historical tradition of very personal beers made in small amounts.

It also is representative of the future. Sprinkman said that they have noticed that many restaurants across the country are beginning to offer a brew pub experience. Microbreweries are no longer being established as quickly as they were. They are expensive to build and distribution involves a heavy investment of time and personnel. Brew pubs are easier to manage.

"The brew pubs will go on forever," said Sprinkman.

"Brew pubs are one percent of all restaurants in the United States," said Surwill.

"The system is built for my height," said Woodford. When the Sprinkman company installed the system for making beer, it was built to fit Woodford's height so that she could reach valves, pipes, and comfortably read instruments. The result is a brewer-friendly brew system.

The result is that she can maintain the system for optimum beer making. Sprinkman said that Woodford definitely keeps her equipment cleaner than other brewery operations he has seen.

"You can't make good beer in it," Woodford said, unless the system is absolutely clean.

She keeps it clean, cleaner than most.

Columbia Bay Brew Pub joins Micky Finn's Brew Pub, in Libertyville, and Flatlanders, in Lincolnshire, as local places for fresh beer. "We're the first one in unincorporated Lake County," Woodford said. Getting her first batch of beer made, however, was helped by the attitude of helpful sharing that exists among people who brew beer.

"Everything was set up for our first brew," said Surwill. In the midst of preparing the beer in March, they discovered that unground grain had been sent to them in error by their supplier.

"Ryan Ashley came to our rescue," Surwill said. Ashley from Micky Finn's Brew Pub ground the grain to help them keep going.

"(Ashley) was glad to do it," said Surwill. "He's a very nice man."

Woodford made her first call to Sprinkman on May 4, 1998 and 11 months later was at the point of brewing her first beer. Today, customers receive a card with all four beers described. The text is illustraed with drawings of Chester, a mouse, drawn by daughter Amanda Woodford. Chester also watches over their pub from signs, caps, and other souvenirs.

According to Sprinkman, some cultural historians consider beer to be very important to people. "Beer is the reason why communities and civilizations exist," he said. People had to come together and had worked cooperatively to create beer. It was the start of cooperative enterprise.

Regardless of the truth of that theory, people in the Lake Villa and Antioch area now have their own opportunity to taste fresh beer and enjoy it with their meal.

"You can't beat it for freshness," said Surwill.

MYSTIC: Overgrown lots get some attention not interested in the problem."

"The bank says the cutting should be taken care of out of association dues," Parks added.

Clark confirmed the village has an ordinance regarding grass heights, that they must be kept at 8 inches.

Village Manager Tim Wells explained the village could schedule the lots for mowing, however, they would probably only be cut once, maybe twice, during the entire summer.

"We've got our summer help now," Wells said, noting they began work June 7. "They will go to the lots which are really in need of mowing first."

"At last count, there are about 130 lots within the village which we mow and we only have one machine which does it," explained Wells. "That's why we can't say we'd definitely be able to cut them more than once."

Clark explained the homeowners association is really the "first line of defense" when it comes to trying to get cooperation from the empty lot owners.

"The dues we're collecting are to maintain the completed lots," Park said, noting the homeowners are not an official association yet because there is not enough of the project completed. The village ordinance and covenants requires the association take over once 70 percent is completed.

"I'm sure we'd help you collect the money and I'm sure you would collect the money from the bank," Clark said.

Hiring the same company which handles the current mowing of completed lots to cut the vacant lots was also recommended by Clark.

"Make sure to keep good track of the lots which they mow, because I'm sure the bank is going to want documentation," Clark recommended.

According to village ordinance, if the village cuts the lot to the owner is $100 each time. Parks said a quote has been requested from Olson Landscaping Co. which is currently contracted for the completed lots. The homeowners are awaiting Olson's reply.

"We, the village, will put them on notice and give them time to reply," Clark concluded, noting notification of LaSalle would be made June 8 with them given, at most, until the end of the week to reply.

LaSalle will be informed if either the village or the homeowners will have the lots mowed with a lien for the cost placed against them.

In another issue of Mystic Cove residents, Parks expressed concern for a house which is near completion, but has not sold and has been in litigation.

"The deck is in danger of falling down and we're afraid the kids could get hurt," Parks said.

Bob Silhan, village director of planning, zoning and building, informed the board he is aware of the situation.

"The bank has been talking to a builder who has obtained an architect," Silhan said, noting they received a request to review the previous plans before they made a decision on moving forward on the house.

The builder and bank representatives are both aware of the deck problem, according to Silhan. Silhan plans to keep the homeowners apprised of any progress regarding the house.

Discussions concerning possible changes to the existing retention ponds located at the subdivision entrance are another topic of concern to the homeowners. Another developer taking over the unsold portion is a major "rumor" which has caused concern expressed by Parks as well.

"There are rumors of possible buyers, and we're concerned with what their backgrounds are and what they intend to do with it," Parks explained. "As homeowners, we're also concerned with what changes to the entry way would do to the community, as well as us."

"Sometimes, the residents hear more through rumors than we will as a village," interjected Mayor Marilyn Shinefug.

"The bank has obtained a consultant, but there are some maintenance issues," said Silhan. "It's all kind of up in the air at this time."

There was another builder who expressed interest, according to Silhan. Those plans hit a dead-end when the contractor's proposed changes were not remotely within any kind of workable options within the current Planned Unit Development (PUD).

"Any changes in the PUD plans, they must notify the village," Silhan continued. "If they are major, it may necessitate another public hearing."

"We want to make sure the village does its part to keep the homeowners in the loop," stressed Trustee Wayne Foresta.

"Things are moving slowly, but I will keep Mr. Parks informed," concluded Silhan.

Skater suffers injuries after hanging onto moving vehicle

While Grayslake officials work on building a skate park in town, inline skating enthusiasts are asked to be patient and avoid wild stunts.

One skater avoided serious injury last weekend after being thrown from a moving automobile he was holding onto, police said.

The victim, 19, of Grayslake, was holding onto the drivers side door of a vehicle as it traveled on the 100 block of Seymour Street the morning of June 5, police said.

A resident called police at 10:36 a.m. to report a subject was injured at 161 Seymour St., and needed assistance, reports said.

Paramedics transported the victim to Condell Medical Center in Libertyville, where he was treated for face abrasions and released, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The driver of the car, David S. Corey, 18, of Grayslake, was arrested for reckless driving, and was released on a $1,000 I-bond, pending a July 20 court hearing in Grayslake, police said.

Anyone who sees anyone hanging from a moving vehicle is asked to call the police.

The Island Of Hawaii

by JIM WARNEKEN,
President, North Star Travel, Inc.

The State of Hawaii actually consists of a chain of islands, the five major of which are Oahu, Maui, Kauai, Molokai and one actually named Hawaii, but better known as the "Big Island".

You're probably most familiar with Honolulu and its tourist area of Waikiki beach, which is on the more populated, and most visited, island of Oahu. Today, however, we're going to talk about the largest, but one of the least visited of the Hawaiian Islands, and the namesake of the state. I'm speaking, of course, of the Big Island of Hawaii.

You'll not find the "Don Ho show" playing at any of the nightclubs on the Big Island. In fact, you'll be hard pressed to even find a nightclub, except at one of the larger resorts.

You will find orchard farms, a coffee plantation, and a 1/4 million-acre cattle ranch, complete with Hawaiian cowboys.

You can sun yourself on the beaches of the color of your choice. On the Big Island beaches come in white, black, yellow and even emerald green.

I once hiked through a tropical valley on the Big Island where I found wild oranges the size of grapefruits and crystal clear streams filled with rare freshwater shrimp.

The Big Island is home to both an active volcano, spurring a river of fiery lava into the ocean, as well as a 14,000-ft snow covered mountain. Talk about fire and ice!

If the Big Island interests you, plan on spending a day or two in the Hilo area, even though it's on the rainy side of the island. You'll get plenty of sun later on the Kona side of the island...

Hilo will be your base for visiting Volcano National Park where you can hike down into Kilauea crater, the most attractive of Hawaii's two volcanoes. (Yes it's safe!)

While in Hilo, get up early one morning, and visit the fish auction at the Susan Fish Market for a good photo of Hawaii's local fishing fleet and their catch. Then head over to Banyan Drive with its canopy of banyan trees with plaques identifying who planted them. You'll find names like Amelia Earhart and Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

After a visit to the orchid farms and many waterfalls, compliments of the afternoon rains you're likely to encounter in Hilo, it's time to head to sunny beaches of Kona.

Pomp & Circumstance for all ages, times

Tis the season where students of all ages are celebrating a major accomplishment: graduation.

Whether you will be receiving a diploma from pre-school, kindergarten, junior high school, high school trade school or college—congratulations.

Graduating from any grade is quite a major milestones in one's life and should be well recognized with as big a party as mom and dad will swing for. To you little ones who have progressed up the ranks of walking, talking and potty training, graduating from pre-school calls for another entry in your baby book. To those of you making the jump from kindergarten to first grade it means lunch at school and no afternoon nap. To those of you who just graduated from Junior High: a gentle warning.

Although you were top bananas in junior high, the head honchos, the most respected, the most feared, the King of the school, a rude awakening awaits you next year. Unfortunately you will find yourselves at the bottom of the food chain. Get ready to suffer at the hands of the upper classmen, especially if you have older sibling already in high school.

Upper classmen, especially those related to you, can make your life hell. Believe me you would be much better off having your mother following you around school all day tucking in your shirt and wiping food stains off your face with her spit-soaked handkerchief than to be singled out by those spirited seniors.

To high school graduates, this is your time of independence. Whether it be off to the college of your choice or out into the working world. Most of you will be on your own for the first time, away from curfews, chores and that family quality time. Yes, you will be out there supporting yourself, paying bills, or perhaps skipping classes and spending Spring Break in Florida. In the back of your mind, mom and dad always have a well-stocked refrigerator and plenty of laundry soap. For you college graduates who now have that certificate in your hand proclaiming you are fully qualified to perform your chosen field, welcome to the Reality 101. Now is when you will find yourself becoming respectable, settling down, finding a good job, perhaps even getting married, having 2-3 children, buying a house with a big deck and a mini-van. You have reached lives ultimate destination: you have become your parents.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Oh, it might not happen tomorrow but that eye opening day will sneak up on you before you know it and slap you square in the face one morning while you are looking at your reflection in the mirror, or groan as you get up out of bed. Nobody is immune from their destiny.

So congratulations to all of you, hopefully you will be successful in your future endeavors and if not, remember, mom and dad still keep the spare house key under the fake rock in the garden.

And so goes another, "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

THE WILLIAM E. BROOK WINTER RECREATION PROJECT A PART OF THE William E. Brook Memorial Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center

In April of 1996 the Village of Antioch announced plans for a special project located east of Skidmore Drive. The purpose of the project is to enhance 3.25 acres of wetland on a 6-acre site along Sequoit Creek to promote increased wildlife habitat and provide educational benefits for the residents, tourists and students. This project includes the creation of two ponds, planting of wetland vegetation, creation of a commemorative brick path entrance including berms, planting trees and wild flowers, construction of walking paths and board walks through the wetlands, educational standards, nesting areas for water fowl and a building to be used as an educational and entertainment center.

This special project has since grown into the William E. Brook Memorial Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center. The purpose of the memorial is to honor the life and the legacy of our remarkable citizen, William E. Brook. His love of, and respect for nature continue to inspire us.

The goal is to accomplish this entire project through private donations, in-kind donations, volunteer help and grants. The sale of commemorative bricks for the entrance will help raise money for the overall project. Your brick(s) can become a permanent part of this spectacular project.

Tricks for everyone!

Whether you're a golfer or not, it would be worth checking this out!

I've been wrapped up in this silly game for almost 27 years and to see world-renowned trick shot artist Peter Longo is something that really puts the game in a different light.

Who knows—maybe there's a shot he'll demonstrate that one might not otherwise view possible. And it could save many strokes off the scorecard for that matter.

Well, here's the chance!

Longo will be on hand at the Provena Saint Therese Medical Center's 18th Annual Provena Hospice Golf Outing next Wednesday, held at Midlane Resort and Country Club in Wadsworth.

The outing will commence with a 12:30 shotgun start, followed by an exciting trick shot display slated to begin at 6:30 p.m. Dinner will immediately follow.

Specifics regarding the outing include many raffle prizes and a shot at a hole-in-one, for which prizes available include $10,000 cash, a Harley-Davidson motorcycle, and three new cars from area dealerships.

A silent auction in the evening and a raffle are also part of the event. Raffle tickets are for sale at the hospital; prizes are $1,000, $500, and $250, with the winners being announced during dinner.

Now, reservations are required to see Longo perform. If one chooses to play in the outing, see Longo's demonstration, and enjoy dinner, the cost is $225 per person. Again, if you're not of the golf-inclined, one can still purchase a $75 ticket, which will include the demonstration, open bar and dinner.

Interested parties may contact Wilma at (847) 360-2221. Reservations for actually playing in the outing are still being taken.

Longo, who has performed over 900 exhibitions worldwide the past decade, combines creative entertainment with golf abilities and has dazzled many in attendance. He has been a world-class trick shot artist since 1979.

Furthermore, Longo has been a PGA professional for over 25 years and spent one year playing on the PGA Tour (1978-79).

Among the long list of accolades on his resume, Longo, otherwise known as "The King of Clubs," is a staff writer for Golweb, contributing entertainment, historical, comedy, and special features on the internet.

Longo, originally from Arizona, was named the The Phoenix Samaritan Award winner for broadcast excellence and is also golf editor and talk show host for local Phoenix station, KTAR Radio.

Proceeds from the golf outing will benefit Provena Hospice, which provides medical care and emotional and spiritual support to terminally ill patients and their families.

A lot of fun for a very worthwhile cause! Sounds like a good combination!

ACHS softball ousted in regionals

Significant strides made despite record

BY JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Despite losing in the regional semifinals last week to Stevenson, the Antioch varsity softball team had a season which saw many outstanding performances.

For starters, junior shortstop Mags Kotlarz and senior second baseman Melissa Bock were recently voted to the NSC All-Conference team. For the season, Bock, a three-year varsity starter and team captain, compiled a .286 batting average and .486 on-base percentage. In the field, Bock recorded 126 putouts and/or assists out of a possible 143 chances, good for an .881 fielding percentage.

Turning to Kotlarz, a two-year varsity starter, batted .393 with a .533 on-base percentage and .618 slugging clip. On defense, she recorded 93 assists and/or putouts out of a 102 chances, good for a 91 percent fielding percentage.

Kotlarz is currently competing in the IHSA Hitting Derby at the state softball finals on the campus of Northern Illinois University.

"Hopefully she'll be able to get pretty far," said head coach Steve Wapon. "She's had a tremendous season and I think she has a great chance to do some damage there (in the hitting derby)."

Kotlarz received the honor after being selected by regional coaches.

Other bright spots Wapon and the Sequoits have to look forward to heading into next year include the return of Kaeleen O'Connell, who will be a senior. O'Connell racked up a .243 batting average to go along with a .403 on-base average. Second-year starter, centerfielder Jamie Knuth, who will be a junior, batted .318 on the year with .411 on-base percentage. Third baseman Kristen Curran will be a returning senior who batted .291 to go along with a .466 on-base clip this season.

Other bright spots in the Sequoits future includes catcher Laura Weber, who will be a sophomore and compiled a .416 on-base clip. Antioch's outfield looks to be set, with the return of sophomores Megan Haggard (.320 on-base), Venessa Taubbee (.242 BA, .524 on-base), and, Nicole Astar (.382 on-base).

"Those three rotated quite a bit and shared a lot of starting time," said Wapon. "They learned a lot and we feel really good about their potential heading into next year."

In the season-ending game against Stevenson, the Sequoits were shut down by Patriot hurler Elissa Wisniewski, who fanned 14 Antioch batters.

"We caught a good team," said Wapon. "She (Wisniewski) gave us fits."

Antioch, which concluded the campaign 10-24, was limited to three hits. Knuth collected two of them while (Carrie) Haggard had the other.

"We never really got a good bat on the ball," added Wapon. "They chipped away at us—that's what championship teams do—score little by little or whenever you can and back it up with good defense."

Sophomore pitcher Abby Thomas was saddled with the loss, dropping her to 8-16 with 144 innings pitched on the year. She went the distance against Stevenson, scattering 10 hits while fanning three and allowing just one walk.

"The girl's played hard all year," noted Wapon. "Hopefully we're turning the corner—we're already excited about next season."

Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools

For the first time, the Chicago Bulls are offering summer basketball clinics for boys and girls ages 6 to 14. Register now for the Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools because space is limited to 50 participants per program.

The week-long program in Antioch will be held at Antioch Upper School, June 14 to 18, at a cost of $189. The rookie (ages 6-8) session and the veteran (ages 9-14) session will be from 8:30 a.m. to noon. To reserve space or request more information on the Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools, call 1 (630) GOBULLS (462-8557).

Bobby Hansen, a former Bulls' guard and member of the 1992 NBA World Championship team, serves as executive director of the Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools.

"We really want the kids to enjoy themselves at the clinics. Basketball is a fun game and we hope each kid comes away from the program with an increased interest in playing."

Each child will receive a Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools gym bag, reversible jersey, t-shirt, basketball and graduation certificate.

As part of the Chicago Bulls continuing commitment to the education of disadvantaged youth, the Bulls Basketball Schools also will participate in the award-winning children's book collection program "Target Literacy," sponsored by Target stores and Reading is Fundamental (RIF) Chicago. The Chicago Bulls Basketball Schools' goal is to help "Target Literacy" reach its goal of 1 million new or gently worn children's books.

Bringin' home the gold!

Coyotes claim title in Mustang Tournament

The Lake Villa Coyotes took first place in the Lake in the Hills Mustang Tournament over Memorial Day weekend. The travelers overcame avenged an early season loss by defeating a strong McHenry team, 5-2, in the championship game. Strong pitching by Sean Hertz and Carl Stream keyed the victory. A solid defensive effort was also turned in by first baseman Zach Amrein.

During the three day, five game tournament, the Coyotes outplayed their opponents offensively and defensively. Hertz, Stream, Brian Schmidt, Danny Sheridan, Amrein, and Donny McGinty led the defense from the mound. The Coyote bats also came alive, anchored by Jake Cobb, Billy Battistone, Matt Limbert, Zach Jung, Mike Konrath, Adam Goetsch, and Matt Osterberg.

Blaze undefeated in Libertyville Cup

The Lindenhurst Boys U-9 travel team won three games and tied one at the Libertyville Cup held over Memorial Day. The Blaze played the Highland Park Giants and in a very physical game, the two teams battled to a 2-2 tie.

Kurt Houghton opened the scoring in the first quarter with a solo effort around three defenders. Highland Park answered two minutes later with their own goal from 20 yards out to tie it at 1-1.

In the second quarter Tommy Sewart dished off to Colin O'Malley, who was streaking down the sideline and converted, giving the Blaze a 2-1 lead at the half.

The second half was a seesaw battle but the Highland Park Giants tied the game 2-2. Tommy Sewart was outstanding in goal, making numerous stops to preserve the tie. Late in the game, it appeared the Giants might prevail when a shot went past Blaze goalie Brian Hook, who kicked the ball out just before it crossed the goaline.

Outstanding defense was turned in by Brian Mooney, Ethan Hahn and Andrew Stein. Kyle Sytsma and Connor O'Keefe applied outstanding offensive pressure, especially in the second half.

The Blaze then won dominated and won two ensuing games. The Blaze defeated Zion-Benton in the first game, 4-0, as Tommy Sewart, Chris Church, Matt Laine, and Andrew Stein shared goalkeeping duties in recording the shutout. Kurt Houghton scored the first goal on a pass from Sytsma and O'Keefe assisted twice on two Colin O'Malley goals in the first half. Sewart then finished off the scoring on a nice crossing pass from Houghton.

The next victory came at the expense of the Rockford United Ravens, with the Blaze prevailing, 3-1. The Ravens did not have a shot at goal until two minutes left in the game.

Two unassisted goals were scored by Houghton and one by Stein with other goal by O'Keefe with the assist going to Sytsma. Excellent midfield play was made by O'Malley, Houghton, Hook and Alex Kelley.

The final game was against the host team Stingers from Libertyville. The Blaze controlled, outshooting Libertyville, 25-3, en route to a 3-1 victory.

Two unassisted goals by Houghton and one goal by O'Keefe (assisted by Stein) accounted for the Blaze's offense.

Take a Walk

An easy guide to navigating Lake County's hiking and biking trails

By LESLIE PIOTROWSKI
Staff Reporter

Lake Forest resident Jim Hochgesang knows where to find some of the most breathtaking vistas in Lake County's forest preserves.

He has hiked or biked approximately 5,000 miles of trails throughout the Chicago metropolitan area since his retirement from Ameritech in 1993.

After covering all those miles, he has now made it many times easier for anyone to navigate the area's forest preserve trails. He and his wife Sandy have written five books on the subject.

"I had always enjoyed hiking and biking and I knew there were lots of trails, but there was little information about them," he said.

The results of a Forest Preserve study indicating that people were very interested in learning more about the trails inspired the couple to begin their first book, "Hiking & Biking in Lake County."

With no prior writing experience, the two had several challenges to overcome. By hiring Sheryl DeVore as an editor and Melanie Laws as a designer, their first book rapidly took shape.

"The toughest part was doing the maps," said Sandy Hochgesang. "We tried to keep them simple with accurate information and access to the trails."

"Hiking & Biking In Lake County" covers 230 miles of trails and pathways through more than 25 parks and forest preserves. It tells the reader just where to go to pick up the trail, the kind of trail — whether dirt, gravel, asphalt or wood chip — the length of the trail, facilities along the trail and sites of interest.

For instance, the book describes how Jim came upon an oak savanna within a sea of wildflowers while he was hiking a trail in the Grant Woods Forest Preserve near Fox Lake. The experience made him feel as though he was in a cathedral.

The book encourages readers to listen for sounds, such as bobolinks, savanna sparrows and meadowlarks singing in the grasses of the McDonald Woods Forest Preserve in Lindenhurst.

"I love Ryerson Woods," said Sandy, who has done some hiking but mostly handles the administrative side of publishing and marketing the books. "On some trails you can still hear traffic, but (Ryerson) makes you feel as though you're deep in the woods."

WALK: Couple make navigating area trails easy

Jim said that a particularly special moment for him was seeing a green heron with his 7-year-old son, Jeff, at the Crabtree Nature Center in Barrington.

What the book doesn't include are stories of the close calls Jim encountered as he covered mile after mile of trails. One wintry day he was cross-country skiing on the Des Plaines River Trail, when he fell through some ice that covered the pathway. The water was only two-feet deep, and he managed to pull himself out and walk the mile back to his car.

"It pays to be prepared," he said.

He favors the Des Plaines River trail for its scenic views. The trail is split into two sections. The northern section starts at Russell Road just south of the Wisconsin border. It winds around 74-acre Sterling Lake with a bridge crossing over the water, and then passes through Van Patten Woods, the Wadsworth Savanna Dedicated Nature Preserve, and the Des Plaines River Wetlands Demonstration Project, where rare species of birds nest. It offers 16 miles of hiking trails and 15 miles of bike trails.

The trail now ends north of U.S.

Route 41 in Gurnee Woods, but there are plans to connect it to one continuous 70-mile trail from the Wisconsin border down southern Cook County.

The southern section of the trail winds through four forest preserves. The entrance is on St. Mary's between Routes 137 and 60. The trail, travelers pass through C. School Forest Preserve, MacA. Woods Forest Preserve, Wrigley Woods and Half Day Forest Preserve, which offers a mix of woods and wetlands. In all, the trail is 22 miles of hiking trails and 2 miles of biking trails.

Bulls shirts: One size no longer fits all

Fridays are my "column writing" days, and I usually start the day by throwing on some comfy old clothes and taking the dogs for a long walk. I'd like to say that I take my dogs for a walk in the woods in order to let them experience the natural sights and sounds that elude them in their usual suburban habitat, while simultaneously clearing my mind of stress and daily annoyances, thereby attaining a certain peaceful karma which will enable my brain cells to channel some of the cosmic humor energy of the universe.

That's what I'd LIKE to say. But really I do it because that way they'll be too tired to interrupt my writing by dropping smelly, drool-dripping dog toys at my feet every five minutes.

Anyhow, today was no different, except when I pulled a T-shirt out of my closet, put it on, looked in the mirror and saw these words staring back at me from the shirt:

"THE GREATEST TEAM EVER: 1996 NBA CHAMPION CHICAGO BULLS"

LIFE'S A BEARDonna Abear*

I couldn't remember the last time I wore that shirt, and to tell you the truth, I almost put it back in the closet. There was something odd about it. It seemed to have extra, loose material about the shoulders and chest area. Or maybe it's just the way I was standing. It's hard to say for sure, because I can't remember how it used to look.

I do remember how it used to FEEL, though. When I'd put on that shirt or others like it in the days of Michael Jordan's Bulls, I would stand up tall, my shoulders back, my head held high, my chest puffed out with pride as if to say, "He da man, and I da fan!"

Invariably, I would meet others wearing the same shirt, and we'd share a smile of recognition, and a passing, "Da Bulls!" Wearing any sort of Bulls paraphernalia during the years 1991 through 1998 made you an instant member of a vicarious (and yes-cocky) club of people who, by virtue of merely residing in the same state as a championship team with a legendary player, considered themselves winners, too.

But today, it just felt...painful. It was like wearing a shirt with a picture of some dead relatives on it.

And maybe that's not too far off. Because there's one thing I'm sure of — that championship 1996 season and the five others that came before and after it, are gone, dead, over. And though we never had a formal "funeral" in Grant Park or anywhere else, this year's Bulls basketball scores were like the sound of nails being pounded into a coffin. For a while this season, I felt like a traitor, a "fair weather fan," because I couldn't bear to watch the current Bulls play. But where is it written that the only "true fan" is one who supports every single person who wears a particular team's colors?

Because the truth is, while the new team may be "the Bulls" are no longer "DA BULLS." The team, DA BULLS team, revolves around the talented nucleus Michael and, to a lesser degree, Scottie, and is the one that earned my respect over many years. As time went on, I became so attached to them that I felt like a proud parent, watching her adopted child succeed beyond her wildest dreams (with the exception of Michael's course — in his case, my mother's tendencies ran about as deep as Woody Allen's fathering tendencies).

So when it comes to the Bulls, I look at it this way — right now, they're in the NBA orphanage. And someday, maybe I'll want to adopt them.

But for now, I think I should pack away all those champion Bulls shirts.

They just don't fit right anymore.

'Instinct' is an intense, emotional ride

I should forewarn you. If you are reading this review to see me rant and rave about how Instinct was too much like Silence of the Lambs, as so many critics have done, then I urge you not to read this review.

While Silence of the Lambs gave us Hannibal Lecter, a psychopathic cannibal who had a friend for dinner, Instinct gives us a primatologist, Ethan Powell (Anthony Hopkins), who takes on the behavior of the apes he is studying while in Rwanda.

For two years, Powell essentially vanished without a trace into the jungles of Rwanda. He was captured by police and placed in a Rwandan jail for a year after killing two members of the Rwandan police force when confronted. He was then returned to American ground and placed in Harmony Bay Correctional Facility, home to an overcrowded prison population and a cast of mentally ill men.

Powell is fierce. Powell is angry. Powell will attack if confronted, and will kill, by instinct, if threatened. This is what he attempts to do while in an airport, as he attacks several innocent people and correctional officers, much to the dismay of his daughter (Maura Tierney) and wife, who stood nearby.

At Harmony Bay, all are confused about Powell, even his fellow inmates. Powell had been voluntarily mute for over a year, sharing only icy looks and violence with anyone he came into contact with.

Theo Caulder (Cuba Gooding, Jr.) is assigned to evaluate Powell for a hearing, meeting face-to-face with the over-medicated, abused man. In spite of various setbacks, including an attempted attack with a pencil, Caulder remains hopeful that he can be the one to pull Powell from silence.

In the meantime, Caulder is assigned to meet with the array of mentally ill inmates who are held in the prison. Though stereotypical of prison life and the mistreatment of inmates, I could not help but feel sorry for the inmates who were continually brutalized for merely giving a guard "a look."

Caulder eventually coaxes Powell out of silence, only to be met with more obstacles, as Powell is continually reluctant to share the details of his experience and the murders. What ensues is a feisty dialogue between Caulder and Powell with enough emotion to bring you to tears. I spent about 80 percent of the movie using all of my energy to stop myself from bursting into tears.

The last half hour of the movie is intense, as the truth about Powell's life comes out, and the two men forge a seemingly impossible friendship.

Rumor has it that this movie will be Hopkins' last, which is upsetting. But Hopkins gave one of his best performances in this movie, as did Gooding, Jr. The interchange between these two highly talented actors was amazing.

Tierney gave a good performance as the concerned, yet angry, daughter. Sutherland, while having only brief appearances in the movie, played the part of a psychiatrist and professor with precision and a lot of ego.

This movie proved to be an intense and emotional ride. The only pitfall was that I left the theater wanting to run to the nearest zoo to release all of the animals.

In light of the outstanding performances by Gooding, Jr. and Hopkins, as well as the emotion, suspense, and occasional humor, I give this movie four out of five popcorn boxes.

Mammoth birthday party planned for Affie the Elephant

Affie, Brookfield Zoo's 11,000-pound African elephant, will be 19 years old this June. To help celebrate this mammoth occasion, the zoo is having a birthday bash on Friday, June 11, and everyone is invited!

The party begins at 10:30 a.m. in front of the pachyderm yard as zoo staff talk about the importance of African elephant conservation and what Brookfield Zoo and others are doing to help these magnificent creatures.

For further information about Affie's birthday party, call (708) 485-0263, ext. 879.

Those who wish to do a big favor and help Brookfield Zoo care for Affie for one year, can "adopt" her through the Parents Program. A $25 Shared Care package includes a 5 x 7-inch color photo of the birthday girl, a personalized certificate, an elephant fact sheet, a window decal, updates on Affie during the year, and an invitation to the annual Parents' Evening held at the zoo on August 14. For further information about the zoo's Parents Program, call (708) 485-0263, ext. 341.

HOROSCOPE

Arles - March 21/April 20

Don't keep your opinion to yourself when you disagree with a close friend. He or she is open to other viewpoints and will listen to what you have to say. Speak your mind. A loved one needs your help with a family matter. Do what you can for him or her. Gemini plays a key role.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Don't be stubborn when it comes to a financial decision this week. What you want to do may not be the best thing. Listen to what those close to

Gemini - May 22/June 21

While you enjoy living life in the fast lane, Gemini, that's not the way it's going to be this week. No matter what you do, you can't seem to make any progress. Don't get discouraged. Just keep working diligently. Things will get better by the end of the week. Virgo is involved.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

Keep your feelings to yourself early in the week, Cancer, especially when it comes to a problem at work. Speaking your mind only will make the situation worse. Let the higher-ups handle this matter. That special someone needs your advice about a personal problem. Try to help.

Leo - July 23/August 23

Don't hold a grudge against a loved one who has made a mistake. He or she didn't mean to hurt you. Let him or her explain what happened, and you're sure to understand everything. The person whom you've been seeing wants to intensify the relationship. Say yes — you know that this is what you want too.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

You can't seem to sit still this week, Virgo. Don't let all of this energy go to waste. Put it to good use, both at work and at home. You're sure to get a lot done if you set your mind to it. loved ones for advice. They have your best interest at heart. They will help you make the right choice.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

A close friend gets into some trouble and needs your help. While you're hesitant to get involved, do what you can for him or her. Your efforts definitely will be appreciated. A co-worker reveals his or her true feelings for you. Be sure to let this person down gently. You don't want to damage your professional relationship.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

You have a lot to do early in the week, Sagittarius; don't get distracted. Stay focused on the tasks at hand, and try to ignore the antics of those around you. You don't have time for that. With hard work, you'll get things done — and you'll have plenty of time to relax during the weekend. Aquarius plays a key role.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

Don't be shy when you meet an interesting person this week. Let him or her know how you feel. Your feelings will be reciprocated. A close friend asks for your advice about a personal matter. Be honest — even if what you have to say won't be appreciated.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

Be realistic when planning your week, Aquarius. There's so much that you want to get done, but you know that you can't do it all. Prioritize things, and you're sure to make a lot of progress. That special someone needs a shoulder to cry on. Be there for him or her.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Stay alert at work this week, because something is going on. Try to find out what it is. Business associates are counting on you to learn the truth. Don't worry — things are not as bad as they seem.

Second Des Plaines River canoe expedition

Capture the history, beauty and future of The Des Plaines River with historical re-enactors from the fur trade era, as they paddle twenty-six foot long canoes down 95 miles of the Des Plaines river over three days, June 11-13.

At twenty-four stops along the way guests, including elected officials, agency personnel, media representatives and other VIPs from the watershed, will join Southwest Brigade re-enactors for portions of the trip. A different, short educational program will be conducted at each stop just before guests board the boats for the next leg of the Expedition. The programs will focus on various issues of the river and watershed such as water quality, flooding, native habitat and biodiversity, the history of the site, the recreational uses of the river, and current related public issues.

The Expedition will begin at 7 a.m. on Friday, June 11, at Prairie Spring Park in Pleasant Prairie, Wisconsin, and travel through southern Lake and northern Cook Counties on Saturday, June 12.

A special landing will take place on Sunday morning, June 13, at the portage of Hofmann Dam. Visitors will be welcome at the fur trade era camp of The White Buffalo Society re-enactors, who will meet the voyageurs. In a show of river cooperation the mayors of Riverside and Lyons will join with citizens to move the boats around the dam and ride together on the following leg. The Expedition will conclude that evening at historic Isle a la Cache in Romeoville.

Sheridan Health Care Center offers program on Alzheimer's awareness

For families stricken by the devastating affects of Alzheimer's and other diseases of dementia, caring for an ailing loved one can become a burdensome task.

As the population ages, the frequency of families seeking support and care facilities for their loved ones with such diseases is on the increase.

Sheridan Health Care Center in Zion, is opening a special care unit to provide for the needs of Alzheimer's patients and those suffering from similar disorders, this fall.

On Sunday, June 13, the facility is sponsoring an educational seminar on Alzheimer's from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Illinois Beach State Resort, 1 Lakefront Drive, Zion.

Sharon Roberts will speak to families about the disease, how to manage behaviors and how to decide when to place a loved one in a long-term care facility.

Roberts has been working with Alzheimer's patients and their families for nearly 20 years, and is the author of several articles on caring for Alzheimer's patients.

"Agitated behaviors, such as those associated with Alzheimer's and other dementia, are the single most cited reason for a family deciding to place a loved one in a nursing home," Roberts said. These agitated behaviors include: anger, insomnia, memory loss and physical aggression.

Roberts believes one of the best ways for families to manage the stress of having a loved one with dementia is to receive education and support from the early stages.

"The idea is to have contact with these families earlier on in the disease, so they know what to expect, how to treat the patient and can make an informed decision about adult day-care programs and later long-term care options," Roberts said.

Roberts said individuals diagnosed with Alzheimer's can live for two to 20 years after diagnosis. Although the national average is four years.

"There is such a need for more programs for these patients because traditionally it is the adult daughter, who cares for the patient, and those daughters are now in the work force," Roberts said. "It is important that they understand their options before making life-altering decisions, such as quitting their jobs to care for a loved one."

During the Sunday presentation, Roberts will talk about assessment of the patient and how they are diagnosed, care giver interaction and environmental changes which will aid in reducing agitated behaviors.

Additionally, Kate Swift, R.Ph., a consulting pharmacist with Lawrence-Weber medical, an Omni Care company, will speak about drug therapy for patients with Alzheimer's. Swift is a member of the American Society of Consultants and has eight years of experience in working with Alzheimer's Patients in a special care unit.

The seminar is open to the public. For more information contact Sheridan Health Care Center at 746-8435. - By R. Burke

Losing pounds for summer can harm your teeth

Many people have begun dieting for summer, but the loss of a few pounds to get into a bathing suit may put the oral cavity in danger.

"Fad or crash diets, appetite suppressants, or fasting can affect teeth gums and other oral structures in a negative manner," says Sharon Lyn-Malinowski, DDS, a general dentist. "For example, diet pills may decrease salivary flow and cause dry mouth. Saliva flow neutralizes plaque acids; without saliva, tooth decay can occur quickly. Another example is fasting which can cause a decrease of necessary minerals needed to maintain a healthy body as well as optimal oral health."

Dr. Lyn-Malinowski stresses that patients who are dieting should inform their dentists so their doctors can record it in the medical history and monitor the oral implications of weight loss. She notes the following behaviors and their impact on teeth.

Vegetarian lifestyle. Some researchers believe that a raw food diet creates an increased risk of tooth erosion. Strict vegetarians risk deficiencies in calcium, vitamin D, vitamin B-2, vitamin B12 or complete proteins. Adults on a vegetarian diet for a prolonged period may experience an increase in gum disease. "Generally, vegetarians learn about food combinations to ensure that adequate nutrition is achieved," says Dr. Lyn-Malinowski. "But some people jump in without research. They should know that it's important to brush with a soft-bristled toothbrush to protect teeth, brush with a fluoride rinse or use a concentrated fluoride gel, and take a multivitamin."

Diet pills cause a decrease in salivary flow which increases the risk for cavities, gum disease, oral candidiasis and discomfort since foods that are consumed adhere to teeth longer. "You should increase water intake to prevent the mouth from drying out," says Lyn-Malinowski. "People using diet pills should use a regular toothpaste because whitening paste with peroxide may be too harsh in a dry environment and can damage enamel. Special toothpastes and saliva substitutes are available for dry mouth sufferers."

Fasting can lead to a deficiency of vitamins and minerals. A calcium deficiency can result in osteoporosis, a rise in blood pressure, and oral health problems such as periodontal disease and eventually tooth loss. Though tooth enamel usually is formed by age 6, they continue to require calcium through adulthood. "Eat crunch foods because the detergent action scrapes plaque off teeth," says Lyn-Malinowski. "Take a multiple vitamin daily, including a calcium supplement. An important source of calcium is dairy products, although many people won't eat them either. Try other good calcium sources, such as leafy green vegetables, calcium fortified tofu, and the soft bones of fish such as sardines or salmon."

The best advice is to diet logically. Take time, do it slowly to maintain weight loss. Many people can lose weight very quickly, but don't do it at the expense of oral or overall health.

The world's largest blood drive to be staged June 28 in Chicago

Hyatt Regency Chicago, the city's largest hotel, has joined forces with Life Source, the city's largest provider of blood, Yellow Cab, the city's largest provider of cabs, and WJMK, Chicago's oldies station to present the first annual "World's Largest Blood Drive" on Monday, June 28 from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. at Hyatt Regency Chicago's Wacker Hall, located at 151 East Wacker Drive, East Tower. There is traditionally a shortage of blood over Independence week, and generally an added need for blood due to the holiday. This event will also be an attempt to make it into the Guinness Book of World Records for the largest blood drive ever staged.

The World's Largest Blood Drive will feature over fifty booths offering health screenings, freebie items, and food sampling. Every person who donates blood will be entered into a raffle to win weekends at Hyatt destinations around the country as well as theatre tickets, dinners and more. A 1999 Saturn automobile will also be raffled courtesy of Chicagoland Saturn retailers. Every person who gives blood will also receive a complimentary ticket to Hyatt's World's Largest office party.

Entertainment will be provided by the hit band Bradley Williams & His Original 21st Century Review from noon to 2 p.m., the 70's/80's retro band Deja Vu from 2:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Chicago's hot swing band Bopology from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. The calendar girls from Hooters will appear from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. and Hooter's will provide complimentary chicken wings. Amici Salon and Supercuts will provide complimentary haircuts throughout the day.

There is no charge for admission, and the public is invited to attend. For more information, phone 312/552-2000.

Is after school, camp consequence appropriate?

Hi Dr. Sherri,

I know that it is almost the end of the school year as I'm calling you, but I figured that my question could be helpful to people for next school year as well as for camp over the summer.

I have a 10 year old daughter. She mildly misbehaves in school. I am really angry because I have asked the teacher to give me feedback and detail about the acts my daughter does during the day so that I can have consequences waiting at home for her after school. Well, not only does the teacher and school not use any consequences for this behavior, they claim that since the child will really not remember anything from the day, that it is useless to give me any information for after school punishment. When I heard this, I lost it. I want to be able to help my daughter learn from her actions and it seems that the people I am speaking to are not in agreement about it. What do you think? Do kids remember enough for after school/camp consequences?

G.G.

PARENT'S PLACE

immediate discipline for acting out behavior in school, than the least that should happen is feedback for parents so that they can use that opportunity to teach their child something. I view every missed or lost opportunity for a child learning something about new skills and self-control as a big waste. It doesn't have to happen that way.

I have worked with many families on this very issue and can also help you with it. I cannot go into great detail about how to follow up in this column since I really don't know you or your specific circumstances. However, I would be glad to get together with you for a consult. The consult would help you with the right things to say and do when dealing with a school or camp faculty person. There are many ways to gain the help and support of a school or camp faculty member. The last thing that you really want to have happen is a fight between you and the school or camp, because as we all know, when that happens, no one gets anywhere. After all, you are both on the same side. The school would like very much to make sure that the bad behavior doesn't keep getting in the way. I have also heard from plenty of satisfied teachers after helping parents to learn to do this correctly.

I will say one more time that I commend you for wanting to follow up with your child in the most complete way. While she won't appreciate it now, your child will appreciate your concern and follow up when she is on the right track in the future!

This column is for entertainment purposes only. Information in this column cannot and should not replace proper Psychological treatment. What every parent needs to know to keep their kids on the right track!" For an appointment, please call (708) 962-2549.

Safety experts estimate that at least eight out of 10 child safety seats are installed or used incorrectly. To help educate parents about proper child safety seat use, a free child safety seat inspection will be held from noon to 3 p.m. Saturday, June 12 at Belvidere Mall, 2107 Belvidere Drive in Waukegan (Lewis Ave. and Belvidere Rd.). The inspection is sponsored by Provena Saint Therese Medical Center and its auxiliary, the Lake County Health Department, Anthony Pon-

Certified inspectors will be on hand to check safety seats for proper installation and appropriate usage. Spanish-speaking inspectors will be available. Children's activities are planned, including finger casting, face painting, health screenings, and a child identification program with fingerpainting. COUNTY DIGEST

Forest preserves office offers Sunday hours

Visitors to the Lake County Forest Preserves' General Offices in Libertyville can now purchase permits and pick up trail maps, newsletters and other materials seven days a week.

Starting Sunday, the Lake County Forest Preserves will extend its weekend customer service hours to include Sundays as a result of the increased demand for permit sales and other services.

Located at 2000 North Milwaukee Avenue in Libertyville, the Forest Preserve General Offices are now open Sundays from noon to 4 p.m. The General Offices are also open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The office is closed major holidays.

Inspectors to start weekend duty

In an effort to reduce possible building and zoning infractions, Lake County building inspectors have begun weekend duty.

Inspectors will be touring the unincorporated portions of the county during regular work hours. People who suspect they have seen a possible building and zoning violation are encouraged to call and leave a voice mail message at (847) 360-6330. Inspectors will be regularly checking that voice mail box to pick up such messages.

"Inspectors will be looking for violations such as building without permits, and site development violations such as filling in flood plains or wetlands," said Building Division Deputy Director Mike Kuhar.

The County Board decided to try this pilot program and will evaluate its success as summer progresses. Prior to the building inspectors working weekends, emergency matters were dispatched to the Sheriff's Office.

'Weird' pests become gardeners nightmare

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
City Editor

Liz Schroeder couldn't believe her eyes when she was checking out the mugo pine bushes in the yard outside of her home in Ingleside a couple weeks ago.

Schoeder noticed that one of the evergreen bushes appeared particularly discolored and brown. After taking a closer look, she observed hundreds of tiny green and black caterpillars eating away at the needles.

"They're weird looking things," Schroeder said of the worm-like creatures. "Really weird. They jump too. It's like they all have nerves and they all move at once."

Schroeder said she's never seen anything like it. Within hours, the once healthy mugo pine had been ravaged by the insects. "My bush was healthy one day and the next day it was dead," she said.

Schroeder checked out the other bushes in her yard and found they were infested too. Fortunately, however, she called a local nursery and was able to treat her other bushes in time to save them.

Many people are unaware of the problem but it's not as unusual as some might think, according to Sharon Yiesla, a horticulturist for the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service in Lake County. The insect Schroeder is referring to is the European Pine Sawfly, a common spring pest that infests mugo pine bushes.

"I know every year we get lots of calls on it," Yiesla said.

In the larval stage of the European Pine Sawfly's development, the insects are small caterpillars that feed on the needles of small evergreen bushes. Later, they fall to the ground where they remain in a resting stage, eventually growing wings and becoming mature insects that fly. They lay their eggs on the needles of the mugo pines.

Kim Denny, owner of Highland Green Nursery in Grayslake, said he's probably received 15 to 20 calls from residents who have problems with the pests.

"Many people don't know about it and when they see it for the first time they're surprised," he said.

The little caterpillars are usually three-quarters of an inch long with a green body and a black head, according to Denny. While they're feeding on the bush, he said it often appears as if the needles of the bush are moving.

Sometimes, the little critters give humans the creeps.

"It's just a unique response these little green worms have because they will follow you as you go by," he said. "That's the identifier."

Despite their unusual appearance, Denny said mugo pine insects are relatively easy to kill, noting that they are susceptible to almost any type of insecticide. Yiesla added they can usually be knocked off the bushes by spraying them with water.

And, while it is a persistent problem every year, fortunately it doesn't last too long. In most cases, Yiesla said the larval stage of the development ends in late spring or early summer, when they grow into mature winged insects.

Even so, Schroeder advises gardeners with mugo pines to be on the lookout. She said just one of the bushes can cost upwards of $50 and it doesn't take long for the insects to destroy them.

"It's a lot of work to keep up your landscape and it's a lot of cost. The biggest ones are pretty hard to replace," she said.

University Center decision delayed again by state board

State Board of Higher Education chairman feels CLC is best site

By JOHN ROSZKOWSKI
Regional Editor

Site selection for the proposed University Center of Lake County has been postponed once again as board members continued to hash out details of the project.

An advisory committee of the Illinois Board of Higher Education was expected to make a recommendation to the full board this week, but the decision was delayed after the committee failed to get a quorum.

Therefore, a decision on where the University Center will be located has been pushed back until August.

"They wanted more time to get together so they could discuss their recommendations in a more thorough way," said Don Sevener, director of communications for the state board.

Although no decision has yet been made, Ed Moore, chairman of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, said most members already have their own opinions of where the University Center should be located.

"I think our board has looked at it enough," said Moore. "I think if people haven't made up their minds I'd be surprised. We've had more information and more site review than any other project I can remember in nine years on the board."

Moore serves on the five-member committee that will recommend a site to the state board.

Although the committee has not met formally to discuss the issue, Moore said his "inclination would be to place the University Center at the College of Lake County." He said CLC meets many of the board's selection criteria and combining it with the University Center creates a "unique educational setting."

Moore emphasized, however, that is "my personal feeling" and may not necessarily reflect the opinions of the full board.

Other sites being considered for the University Center are the Lakehurst Shopping Center in Waukegan and a downtown industrial site in Mundelein.

Moore said the board decided to wait to make a decision until August to give members more time to review the full package of site options and to choose a governing board for the University Center. The delay in making a decision "should not slow down the process at all," he said.

Ordinance attempting to crack down on noise on Fox Waterway

New measure addresses loud stereo noise, partying on Chain

Only a few weeks after passing a controversial ordinance to muffle boat engine noise, the Fox Waterway Agency has adopted another measure designed to reduce noise pollution on the Chain O' Lakes.

At its last meeting, the board adopted an ordinance pertaining to boaters who blast their stereos or who otherwise make excessive noise that's disruptive to residents who live along the Chain.

New board member Mike Mueller proposed the ordinance after talking to area legislators and law enforcement officials, who said they have received a number of complaints from residents about loud partying late into the night.

"They said they had far more complaints about noise from raucous behavior than (engine noise)," he said.

Mueller asked the Lake County State's Attorney's Office, along with the Sheriff's Department, to draft a new ordinance to deal with the problem. The board passed it without dissent.

Linda Ryckman, public information coordinator for the Fox Waterway Agency, said "basically, the intent of the ordinance is to eliminate noise pollution from the Fox Waterway."

University Station updates plan

Lakehurst developers sweeten deal with million dollar cost reductions

A proposal that may place University Station first in every category as the site of the new Multi-University was presented to the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

The proposal reduces by approximately $2 million the cost of the state acquiring or renting a 100,000 square-foot space at University Station now called Lakehurst Shopping Center, Waukegan.

In the proposal, prepared and sent by Rick Scalzo, chief financial officer of Martin Tuohy and Associates, Libertyville, the contract buyer of Lakehurst, the total acquisition cost by the state and Lake County for 100,000 square feet of space and construction cost would be $12,645,000. If the space is leased the cost for construction would be $5,945,000.

In making the proposal Scalzo stated that this "proposal significantly reduces the cost of establishing a Lake County Multi-University Center at Lakehurst Mall, while not reducing any available amenities."

"Prior to this alternative proposal being presented, Waukegan was ranked number one in all site selection categories except cost. This proposal firmly places Waukegan number one in that category as well."

The state of Illinois last week approved $11.5 million to be matched by the county to initiate the school.

Other sites under consideration are the College of Lake County and downtown Mundelein.

NOISE: New restrictions placed on boaters gines or without muffling devices. The new ordinance, according to Ryckman, address other sources of excessive noise such as a loud stereo. He said the agency has pictures of boats equipped with six-foot speakers, and often times there is music blasting or "loud partying, yelling and screaming" as late as 3 a.m.

"It's been quite an irritant to many residents," she said.

Ryckman said Fox Waterway Agency Chairman William Dam received a letter from State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) stating that she had received lots of complaints from residents about excessive noise on the river and lakes.

Offenders of the ordinance can be fined at least $35 and ordered to appear in court.

One area of concern is the vagueness of wording in the ordinance; specifically a provision stating that boaters can be fined if they cause a "breach of the peace."

Some powerboat association members believe that leaves enforcement too much up to the discretion of individual marine patrol officers.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Veteran's memorial dedicated

Round Lake—The Village of Round Lake celebrated the addition of a new memorial sculpture at the corner of Cedar Lake Rd. and Rt. 134 last Saturday.

The memorial, created by artist Robert Cooper and the Grieve Corporation of Round Lake, consists of a 7 foot-high bronze sculpture on a 30 inch high granite podium in a reflecting pool.

The sculpture represents a flag furled around a globe. Behind this is a stone wall containing a plaque, with typography in the shape of the Liberty Bell that recites all the major conflicts of U.S. history.

Guest speaker Allen J. Lynch of Gurnee, who was awarded with the Congressional Medal of Honor during Vietnam, spoke of the importance of memorials, and the importance of never forgetting.

State Senator Adeline Geo-Karls made a special appearance to present mayor James Lumber and the Village of Round Lake with the Illinois State Flag.

Mrs. Illinois pageant held

Wadsworth—This year the Mrs. Illinois International Pageant was held at Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth. The pageant recognizes women for their commitment to family, profession, and community stewardship.

The pageant included three categories of competition which were interview, physical fitness, and evening gown.

Five contestants from Tinley Park, Oakbrook, Waukegan, Elmhurst, and Lake in the Hills, competed for the crown. Runner-up was Pam Kolnicki of Oakbrook.

Tinley Park resident Ann Mazzotti Rechman was named the 1999 Mrs. Illinois International, and will go on to represent Illinois in Tyler, Texas in August for the title of Mrs. U.S. International.

Church to hold county fair

Wadsworth—The Church of St. Patrick in Wadsworth is celebrating their 150 year anniversary with the Paddy's County Fair on Saturday, June 12 from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Everyone is welcome to enjoy this outdoor event featuring contests, games, petting zoo, a Dixieland band, DJ, dancing, and great food.

Admission is free. Food and activity tickets will be available for purchase. Parking space will be provided behind Wadsworth Feed with shuttle transportation to the church grounds.

Civil War re-enactment to be held

Wauconda—Lakewood Forest Preserve near Wauconda will be the site of a Civil War encampment on Saturday.

The event begins at 10 a.m. and continues until 3 p.m.

At 10 a.m., an infantry battalion drill will begin the day. A military drill will follow at 10:30 a.m., with old fashioned children's games and book reading.

A fashion show and a home front program will begin at 12 p.m.

Pre-battle exercises are at 1:30 p.m., a sick drill and a narrated battle re-enactment will also be held, at 2 p.m. A field hospital demonstration is slated for 3 p.m. The day concludes with a "press conference" by President Abe Lincoln and Mrs. Lincoln at 3:30 p.m.

All ages are invited. The fees are $5 for adults and for $2 youths ages 4 to 17. Children ages 3 and under are free.

Another Prostitution Arrest

Libertyville—The Libertyville Police Department was notified of allegations of illegal activities at the Royal Salon, 246A S. Milwaukee Ave. The allegations lead to the arrest of an employee charged with prostitution.

Jung Ok Pak, 35, of 9601 Golf Rd., Des Plaines, who had one prior arrest for prostitution was arrested June 4 and charged with prostitution, a Class A misdemeanor. She posted a $1,000 bond and has a court date of June 23.

Anonymous complaints made to police resulted in an undercover investigation and Pak's arrest.

Detective Dennis Meserve said there are no ties to the Mundelein arrests.

The Royal Parlor has been in operation for two years and is currently still operating.

Meserve said that charges will be brought against the owner of the Royal Salon.

Additional charges are pending review of case information by the State's Attorney's Office.

Garden walk to be held

Libertyville—Garden lovers and extraordinaires will be able to indulge in the sights and smells of area residential gardens this weekend.

The Annual Garden Walk sponsored by the Gardeners of Central Lake County will feature seven area gardens.

The Garden Walk will be held Saturday, June 12 from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and is free.

Those interested in visiting the gardens can pick up directions and details at Cook Memorial Library at 413 N. Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville and Adler Cultural Center at 1700 N. Milwaukee Ave in Libertyville.

This year's event will also include a "best garden" contest. Visitors can vote for the best garden and the owners will be presented with a plaque, however visitors must visit each garden in order to vote.

There will also be a plant identification competition for visitors.

Board removes ordinance

Mundelein—The Mundelein Village Board announced Monday night that it would remove the hearing officer ordinance from the agenda indefinitely.

"The board members and I discussed it. We could have debated this for a long time," said Mayor Marilyn Sindles. "We pulled it from the agenda. We will certainly notify the residents if we bring this back."

Dan Cox, Mundelein resident, has been working with other residents to circulate petitions against the ordinance. At last count, Cox had approximately 400 signatures, with 4,000 fliers in circulation.

The hearing officer, who would be appointed by the mayor and approved by the village board, would hear cases dealing with zoning, building code violations, and non-moving traffic issues such as parking or village stickers.

Construction begins on town hall

Gurnee—Construction is officially underway for the $1.8

million Warren Township Hall.

Work began on the site late last week. The building contract was accepted in early April.

The new town hall, being built on the current site at Washington Street and Almond Road, consists of 21,000 square feet, 10 times the size of the current 2,100 square foot building. It will provide room for township offices, which are currently running out of space, said Suzanne Simpson, township supervisor.

The building is expected to be completed by December, which is several months earlier than the township officials originally expected.

Jewel-Osco goes to board

Grayslake—Plan commissioners gave a favorable recommendation to allow the development of the Jewel-Osco shopping center on the Grayslake Outdoor Theater on Route 120 at Atkinson Road.

The commission approved a recommendation to allow the development to have multiple buildings on one lot, the only issue before them, said Kirk Smith, Grayslake zoning officer and director of economic development.

The petition of Rhyan Management and Hamilton Partners is scheduled to go before the village board on July 6. The 25-acre parcel is not within the village's boundaries, and will need to be annexed.

Mayor appoints new trustee

Fox Lake—Mayor Jim Pappas appointed Dona Scheerer to fill the unexpired term of former Trustee John Erdman, who resigned May 17 with two years remaining.

Scheerer was among Pappas' choices for the Zoning Board, but when Erdman announced he was leaving, she was the first person he said he thought of to put on the board.

Her appointment was approved by the board at the June 7 meeting. Scheerer is chairman of the board's Technology Committee.

SMC buys flood-prone homes

Wauconda—The Lake County Stormwater Management Commission has purchased 12 homes in flood-prone Williams Park subdivision in unincorporated Wauconda Township.

The commission (SMC) approved the purchase at its June 3 meeting, at which time it agreed to spend up to $885,000 to buy the homes.

The commission made offers to 20 homeowners, with 12 agreeing to sell their homes, two wanting to conduct their own appraisals, and six declining to participate, said Ward Miller, commission executive director.

There are 38 homeowners who want to participate in the federal buyout program, and Miller said offers will be made to others on the list, with demolition's expected in July or August.

Volo approves Four Oaks plan

Volo—Volo will never be the same, now that the village board has approved shopping and housing developments on the old Miller Farm on Route 12 and Nippersink Road.

Dirt is not likely to be touched until later this summer on the 100 acre farm, stretching east from Route 12 to Nippersink Road, where it abuts Fischer Estates.

Volo President Burnell Russell said final plat approval is expected to come this summer, granting Home Depot USA Inc. and Four Oaks Development the go-ahead to build.

Trustees unanimously approved the residential portion at Tuesday's village board meeting, held at Old Volo Village antique car museum.

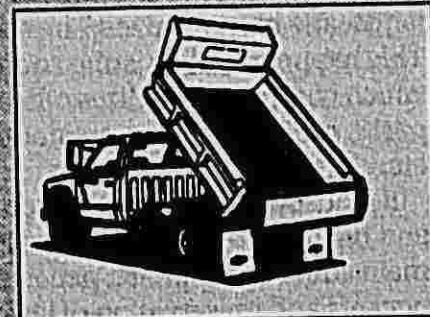

The farm will have 36 acres of commercial property, with over 360,000 square feet in two large buildings and several smaller ones, Russell said. The rest of the land will have housing, but no single family homes as was originally presented. Instead, high density, multi-family housing will be featured, specifically 105 townhomes and 384 apartments.

University Station has funding answers

Sooner or later, the question of funding was bound to temper the euphoria and excitement over establishing a multi-university in Lake County, a unique setting for higher education bringing together the resources of a dozen noted universities. That time has come.

A screening committee of county citizens worked long and hard studying a number of possible sites. They reduced the field to three locations for recommendation to the Illinois Board of Higher Education—College of Lake County, Grayslake; Lakehurst Shopping Center, Waukegan, and an office complex in Mundelein.

Each of the finalists has special qualifications. CLC offers an opportunity for expansion of higher learning in a traditional college setting. The Mundelein location offers a quick start-up with transportation and a variety of suburban amenities. The Lakehurst site is perhaps the most innovative, offering transportation advantages and support services besides the intriguing concept of building a total new community around the multi-university. In addition, there's the inviting name of University Station.

Plans for the Lakehurst location put development of the university conglomerate essentially in the hands of the private sector. Developers see the state matching grant of $11.5 million as a leverage lynch pin to literally reconstruct the aging shopping center. They have the wherewithal to help the county raise the matching money. Developers rightly can invade a state-sponsored institution helping attract venture and investment capital. Only a liberal cynic or an anti-business zealot would begrudge the developers.

A new financial proposal has been advanced by Martin Tuohy and Associates of Libertyville, which is revitalizing Lakehurst with the University Station plan. The Tuohy group is bringing down the cost of renovating Lakehurst for education from $20 million to $14 million. This is less than the $15.3 million the Illinois Capital Development Board estimated to build a facility adjacent to CLC and below the $28 million estimated to acquire and rehabilitate the office complex in Mundelein.

Another big advantage of University Station would be creation of additional tax income developers estimate at $23 million from creation of private sector jobs.

Sort of a "kicker" to the Lakehurst plan is that the shopping center property is all within the boundaries of Warren Township, putting University Station in Warren High and Woodland Consolidated School District, providing a tax bonanza for the two school districts.

In the siting search, University Station started late, but it is catching up rapidly. The reconstitution of Lakehurst could well provide financial advantages that transcend the other two sites.

As a practical matter, to most Lake Countians, the location is relative. If you live in Antioch, Highland Park or south county, access to either of the three sites is about the same. So the availability of matching funding and other financial resources is paramount. Developers of University Station have made a strong case.

Flood-prone homes face extinction

When it comes to dealing with flooding, officialdom is starting to get things right. An example of getting stormwater problems "right" is action taken by the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission (SCM) to purchase 12 flood-prone homes in Williams Park, a subdivision of modest homes on Slocum Lake near Wauconda.

The homes, ranging in value from $50,000 to $100,000, will be demolished at a total cost of $878,000. Demolition, starting next month, will allow the property to return to what nature intended, a flood plain and safety valve for frequent flooding in the area.

VIEWPOINT

Two looks at 2020: Same Fremont area

Through the magic of aerial photography and artistic license, an unusual view of the future of one of Lake County's last remaining open space sectors was presented at a meeting on suburban planning.

Harry Dodson, a nationally known planner from Connecticut, took a snapshot of Fremont Township, showing the location of the new North Central Line commuter station off Harris Rd. in the rural area between Grayslake and Libertyville. Bounded by Peterson Rd. and Rte. 137, the area was chosen because of the crossing of two commuter rail lines and openness on all sides.

Showing conventional development through the year 2020, Dodson depicted subdivisions fanning out along tentacle-shaped streets. Retail and office centers are recessed behind vast parking lots. Public space, including parks and other natural area, is at a minimum. Off on one side is the six-lane extension of Rte. 53.

Showing "smart growth" development for the same period, the two rail lines serve as a focal point for mixed-use that blends residential and retail. At the heart of a new community are two antique-style rail stations. There is a walkable community environment. The proposed Rte. 53 tollway is replaced by farm land and open space. Village streets are narrower and lots are more dense. A bike trail connects the village center and Peterson Rd.

Dodson's vision of a "smart growth" future is accomplished with high density housing, use of downtown garages to replace sprawling parking lots and clustering commercial and retail growth around the rail stations. His only constant between the two visions was the same population.

The planner frowns on letting highway engineers shape the future. "It's a tragedy to see the natural landscape homogenized," he stated. This happens with existing zoning which compartmentalizes office parks, restaurant areas, residential, etc.

In Dodson's vision, parking lots and big box stores are replaced by a main street atmosphere, pedestrian pockets and preservation of farm land. Let available transit shape the countryside along a European or Japanese model.

Dodson addressed about 45 interested persons at the Byron Colby Barn in Prairie Crossing, Rte. 45.

BILL SCHROEDER

Too bad more people didn't turn out for two looks at the future for the same land mass. The presentation was eye-opening.

South Side future

Connie Kowal is living proof that North Siders sometimes venture south of Madison St. The marketing guru who resides in Libertyville left a dream job of 14 years with the Chicago Cubs to become the major drum beater for the new Chicago Motor Speedway being built on the site of the former Sportsman's Park on the South Side.

The former Mundelein High School teacher says he likes the challenge of creating something new in the sports and entertainment world. He insisted that more and more North Siders will be heading south for auto racing, horse racing and all kinds of shows. The sprawling speedway will be a magnet for fun seekers of all ages, Kowal predicted. "Bet on it." Asked what it would take to get a similar facility for Lake County, Kowal said, "Lots of money and lots of nerve." A footnote to Connie's job change: A total of $67 million in Bidwell family money is going into the enterprise. Nary a penny of taxes.

Garden wonder

If you're a gardener like Ed Amann, you're having a career year. "Best garden I've ever had," exclaimed Amann, a retired automobile technician and a widower for a decade who has planted a garden ever since coming home from World War II.

Amann is no ordinary gardener. He maintains a meticulous lawn on an over-sized lot in Round Lake and operates a greenhouse year-around. "I'm amazed. I've already got cauliflower ready to pick," remarked the talented green thumb who used to play bass in a dance combo. Amann credits "absolutely perfect" weather for his vegetable bonanza—warm spring, mild weather and rain at regular intervals. To hear Ed tell, he's had little to do with the record garden.

Saving the land

In talking about the just completed session of the Illinois General Assembly, State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville) offered an interesting historical perspective. She said Illinois and Iowa rank at the bottom of states in preserving and protecting open space. This is because of the aggressive farming heritage of draining wetlands to put land into cultivation. Moore was among lawmakers who successfully pushed legislation to put new public funds into purchases for the state land trust. Rep. Moore said preserving open space is her primary focus. Spoken like a past president of the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. Which she is.

Moose wary of tomato tossers

State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville) faced members of the Legislative Breakfast Club with misgivings as she reported on results of the latest session of the Illinois General Assembly.

"I saw all the cars out front. I wondered if someone was going to toss tomatoes," she confessed at a gathering a Condell Medical Center.

The audience included Sam Rinella, an executive of Rinella Beverage Co., Mundelein and a representation of Doyle Distributing Co. Inc., Gurnee, Lake County's largest beer distributors.

Because both companies are among business supporters, Moore said it was tough to vote for new taxes on liquor and trucks. But revenue is going to support Gov. George Ryan's Illinois FIRST initiatives for highway improvement and repairing crumbling schools.

"There was no public support for trucks," Moore stated matter-of-factly. The hike to $76 for passenger car license fees was another thing. The demure legislator said she took political heat on license plates. "But this was the first increase in 15 years and Illinois ranks 31st in the nation in the cost of auto license fees."

The session was Moore's seventh. "I feel good about what was done. We worked effectively as a minority party," she said.

Rinella managed a grim smile as the meeting broke up.

Waukegan Township Supervisor Patricia Jones will serve as grand marshal for the 1999 American Independence Parade and Waukegan Heritage Festival Sunday, June 27.

Besides expressing thanks for the huge turnout for a fundraiser Thursday night, Sheriff Gary Del Re spent time responding to ques-

Summer vacation

Wauconda Village Administrator Fred J. Dierker said the village board should have an easier summer schedule this year, now that nearly all plans for repairs to the sanitary sewer system are approved, and many projects are completed.

In fact, the big item on the June 1 board meeting agenda was approving the state's mandatory Gift Ban Act.

Pleased with Guy

The Fox Lake Board of Trustees has to be pleased with Gov. George Ryan's Illinois FIRST program, as the community received $100,000 toward the construction of a new fire station in the northern part of the village.

Fox Trustee J. Kevin Hunter said the village had applied for up to $500,000 in funds for the fire station, and were also seeking assistance with repairing the roof at village hall, estimated to cost $200,000, and installing an elevator at village hall, estimated to cost $80,000, allowing for more community use of the building's ground level.

If there's 40,000 plus people in the Round Lake area, then 39,000 missed the greatest parade and best Memorial Day ceremony in recent memory.

Somehow, the downpour during the parade made it even better. (Speaking for myself and Diane, that is.)

consider such a risky venture unless there was a long-term guarantee of the property rights.

From all that I read and heard, the debate about the issue took on nasty political tones. In the House, Garrett mustered the votes to pass the bill. The GOP were trying to charge her with carrying special legislation for a particular developer but they didn't get anywhere with the bogus charge. In the Senate, Link faced similar partisan attacks and fell only two votes short of passage. He publicly regretted that Sen. Adele Geo-Karis, who represents Waukegan as he does, did not vote for the bill.

So, fasten your political seat belts next year when election season rolls around. Not that I or anyone can predict the future, the Republicans might assess their lack of success in their target failures to unseat Rep. Gash. Everyone knows that once someone wins a seat and becomes an incumbent, they become difficult to unseat. On top of that, when that incumbent is a candidate like Gash, who is "all over the place," is accessible, handles consumer-type legislation, and can be politically independent, it makes the job of unseating the incumbent all the more difficult.

I say all of the above because both Link and Garrett have been aggressive and approachable amongst their constituencies. It has been said that even some of their Republican colleagues have said privately that "they're wasting their time trying to beat them." Link took some "early hits" from the county's environmental bloc when he introduced the bill for an elected county executive, but after pulling back the bill and having a pro-environment voting record, I believe that "all has been forgiven."

Garrett withstood some political heat when some attacked her for taking the lead on handling the University Center legislation after it failed in the Senate. I believe that what she did was responsible. It wasn't Democrats in the Senate who "deep-sixed" the bill; it was Republican senators. Why shouldn't she do everything possible to revive the bill that was important to Lake County? Also, she seemed to revive it in a bipartisan way.

Too much is said usually that legislators can rise or fall on how they vote on budgetary, spending issues. My experience leads me to believe that most legislators rise or fall on their person-to-person contacts with the people they represent. Also, if their political campaigns are people-oriented, they are hard to beat.

The thing that bothers me the most is "target races" is the outrageous money spent by both political parties to win those seats. I recall vividly when the late Grace Mary Stern was targeted in her legislative race and at that time it was believed that more campaign funds were expended in that race than any other in the country. One side spends, and the "other side" is forced to do the same.

Campaign funding is the worst part of politics and in spite of all of the rhetoric for reform, I see little of it. So, with target elections aimed at us in Lake County, we can expect that the campaigns will be heavily financed, too. Hopefully, the electorate can cut through the maze staged by political consultants when they weigh their choices. I believe that voters are usually good at that.

In any event, there will be a lot of political excitement next year.

Are you dedicated or addicted?

I am not often surprised by the questions my clients ask. However, a few weeks ago I was caught with no ready answer when a client asked, "Do you think I could be addicted to my business?"

Frankly, the thought of being addicted to one's work had never crossed my mind. Later, after some reflection, I realized that there might very well be a fine line between being a dedicated worker and becoming addicted to your work.

Workers who are dedicated to their work are usually referred to as committed, diligent or conscientious. Employers, associates and workers usually consider these traits positive.

On the other hand, the word addicted means to give into a practice or habit, or having a habitual inclination toward any activity or behavior. You've heard the term "workaholic" used to describe those who have little focus other than their work. An addiction to work is usually considered negative. Therefore, let's look at some areas where going beyond dedication may not be good.

Some danger signals

- When was your last vacation? If it has been more than 12 months since you were able to leave your job or business for even a few days of relaxation, you may be crossing the line.
- Were you able to relax on your last vacation? Did you really relax, or did you just move your office or business to a remote location? Did you spend your time on the phone checking on things at work? Did you constantly find yourself thinking of things that you meant to get done before you left? Did you have to check your e-mail every day? If you aren't able to relax away from work you may be on the verge of becoming work-obsessed.
- Do you have trouble sleeping at nights? Do you have trouble getting to sleep because of work-related thoughts? Do you often wake up in the middle of the night remembering something that you neglected to do at work? Insomnia is a stress-related symptom of overwork.
- Do the activities, accomplishments or failures of family members surprise you? Do you ever find yourself asking, "When did this happen?" or, "I didn't know Johnny had a problem with math." or, "Soccer practice? Who is playing soccer?" If you're behind the curve on family matters, you may be in the addiction zone.
- Do you find yourself "out of sorts" with everyone? Are little things at work making you angry? Are you snapping or shouting at those around you? Does it seem no one does anything right anymore? Does it carry over to home, also? These may be work obsession danger signals.
- When was the last time you visited with a neighbor? If you leave home early and return late, you may never see your neighbors. If you're always at work on the weekends you may not even recognize your neighbor. Remember, there should be more to life than work even if you're a dedicated worker.

Tech Fair guests treated to dazzling displays

Attendees at Lake County's largest business-to-business computer show received a bonus at the 4th annual Technology Fair. In addition to the usual assortment of newer, bigger and faster hard drives, video controllers, RAM, ROM, and software, 40 computer industry leaders combined to put on a dazzling display of the latest technology in a fantastic video presentation. It was all part of Inacomp Computer Systems' 1999 Technology Fair held earlier this month at the Holiday Inn of Gurnee.

Inacomp Computer Systems delivered on its promise that this year's Technology Fair would be the biggest and best yet as they encouraged vendors and guests to "Usher in the New Millennium." The business community left the show very impressed by what they had to see.

"Inacomp Computer Systems is extremely proud of the presentation by our vendors," noted Debra Trombino Moore, Managing General Partner at Inacomp Computer Systems. "The Lake County business community can feel proud, too, because the amount of new technology presented by our vendors demonstrates just how important Lake County is to the computer industry."

That industry was out in force for the Technology Fair. The list of those presenting their newest technology read like a "Who's Who" of the computer world. The Tech Fair lineup featured 3Com, Apple Computer, Business Technology Group, CNF, Cisco Systems, Compaq Computer, Computer Power Systems, Cyberlink, Eastman Kodak, EIZO Nanao Technologies, Goldenram, Hewlett-Packard, Hitachi, IBM, Inacom Corporation, Inacomp Computer Systems, In Focus, Lexmark International, MicroSolutions, Micronet, Morgan Stanley Dean Witter, NEC Computer Systems, NEC Technology, New Horizons, Office Plus of Lake County, Okidata, Picturetel, Power Solutions & Applications, Proxima, QMS, Samsung, Seagate Software, Seagate Technology, Sony Electronics, Sorenson Vision, Tektronix, Toshiba, Tripp Lite, ViewSonic and Vision Tek.

Local business also had the opportunity to attend several education breakout sessions. The 30 minute seminars featuring "Optimizing the Internet for Businesses," produced by Inacomp Computer Systems, how to "Reduce Stress with Increased Data Integrity and System Performance," from Power Solutions & Applications and color printing sessions from both Lexmark International and Tektronix.

Victory Lakes recognizes volunteers

In May, 1998, Victory Lakes Continuing Care Center, 1055 East Grand Av., Lindenhurst, extended a welcome to its first residents. From the very beginning, community volunteers joined the staff in creating a friendly, comfortable environment for those in Victory Lakes' care. Currently, more than 100 people of all ages carry on that volunteer spirit.

They visit with residents, deliver mail and flowers, push wheelchairs, share activities and provide a variety of other services.

As a thank you for their dedication to the residents of Victory Lakes, twenty people were recently recognized for their volunteer efforts. They were honored at a special dinner at Maravela's, Fox Lake, for the hours of service they provide to the older adult residents at the center.

TAYLOR: Crossed that fine line to obsession?

your family? If you leave early and often don't return until late, you may be putting a strain on your relationships. Your family may be growing closer to your neighbors than they are to you. * Are you often slowed down by nagging physical ailments or feeling depressed? Headaches, sleepless nights, digestive problems, high blood pressure and mild depression are common symptoms of both stress and addiction.

After you've considered these questions, ask your spouse or a close friend to answer these same questions for you. If his or her answers contradict yours, don't be surprised. Remember, a classic symptom of addiction is denial.

Good news about capital gains

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Noah Seidenberg

Congress recently gave investors an attractive gift by simplifying the capital gains provisions passed in 1997. In a nutshell, Congress replaced the former maximum capital gains rate of 28 percent with a maximum rate of 20 percent and made the lower rate retroactive to Jan. 1, 1998.

That means nearly all gains earned on investments held more than one year will now be taxed at a maximum rate of 20 percent. (For investors in the 15 percent tax bracket, long-term capital gains will be taxed at a rate of 10 percent.) Better yet, in a year-and-a-half, the long-term capital gains rate will drop further. Beginning in 2001, investments purchased and held more than five years will be taxed at a maximum rate of 18 percent.

Gains on investments held less than a year, on the other hand, will continue to be taxed as ordinary income, which means tax rates up to 39.6 percent. That makes a powerful case for investing for the long term.

Although stocks should never be sold simply because of changes in tax laws, lower capital gains tax rates provide an excellent opportunity to diversify your portfolio. If your portfolio has become overweighted in a single stock, or if the outlook of a stock you own has deteriorated, you may want to take advantage of the lower capital gains tax.

It's easy to control how long you hold individual stocks, but how do you control buying and selling within your mutual funds? Unfortunately, you can't. However, you can choose mutual funds that practice buy-and-hold investing. To determine how often your mutual fund buys and sells stock, check its turnover rate, which indicates how much trading occurs within the fund. The lower the turnover rate, the better. For example, a fund with a 100 percent turnover rate holds its positions an average of one year before selling. A fund with a 50 percent turnover rate holds its positions an average of two years before selling.

Your mutual fund's turnover rate can be found in its prospectus or its annual or semi-annual report. Your investment professional also can provide this information.

If your mutual fund has a high turnover rate, consider moving your money into a high-quality fund that subscribes to a long-term, buy-and-hold strategy. After all, you're the one paying the price for the fund manager's short-term decisions to buy and sell. And, you may be paying as much as 39.6 percent in taxes, depending on which tax bracket you're in!

It's been said that the best gifts are those that keep giving. Congress has given investors a gift that will allow them to keep more of what they earn and pay less in taxes. Make the most of this gift, and hold your investments for the long term whenever possible.

Guide to understanding the mortgage process

Buying a home can be an intimidating experience. After all, it is likely to be the single-biggest investment many people will make in their lifetime. In a survey conducted by the Mortgage Bankers Association, the majority of consumers who did not own a home, expected the mortgage loan process to be difficult, if not very difficult. A little homework upfront can simplify the transaction, says one lender.

"We understand the mortgage process is confusing for many first-time homebuyers. However, those that spend a little time educating themselves about the homebuying process have a much more positive experience," Rob Speight, Branch Manager for the Vernon Hills area of Norwest Mortgage, Inc., the nation's leading provider of home mortgages. "Today, it's easy to get information online or at the library. We also encourage homebuyers to talk with family or friends that have been through the homebuying process. As in any other buying situation, knowledge is power."

Speight outlined the following terms and definitions to help homebuyers better understand mortgage terminology and the homebuying process.

Adjustable-Rate Mortgage (ARM) - a mortgage loan, which periodically adjusts interest rates to current market rates.

Appraisal - an estimate of the value of a property performed by a certified appraiser.

Balloon Loan - similar to a traditional fixed-rate mortgage loan. Borrowers make regular payments, based on a long-term payment schedule (over 15 or 30 years) to a lending institution.

However, at a predetermined time, the balance on the remainder of the loan may be eligible to convert to another fixed-rate loan for the remaining term. These loans are typically paid off within the first three to 10 years. Balloon loans generally have lower interest rates than fixed rate loans.

Credit Score - a number used by lenders to determine an applicant's likelihood of repaying a loan. Credit scores are a reflection of a borrower's recent payment history, amount of current credit and the credit history length. Not considered are the potential borrower's age, race, gender, religion, national origin, marital status, and whether or not they receive public assistance.

Discount Points - a dollar amount, expressed as a percentage of the loan amount, which is paid to a lender to reduce the interest rate on a loan.

Fixed-Rate Mortgage - the most common type of mortgage loan in which the buyer contracts for a specified interest rate over a specified period of time (such as 15 or 30 years). The principal and interest payments do not vary over time.

FHA Mortgage - often called the "first-time buyer's mortgage," these loans are government-backed by the Federal Housing Administration. They are available to buyers with lower downpayments or who are otherwise unable to obtain conventional financing.

Mortgage Insurance (MI) - insurance to protect the lender to the event of a borrower's default and subsequent foreclosure. Paid by the borrower, MI is often required when a borrower obtains a loan with less than a 20-percent down payment.

Pre-approval - an individual's credit has been reviewed preliminarily by a mortgage lender and the lender has conditionally committed to provide a specific loan amount to the borrower.

Pre-qualification - an individual's annual income, assets and liabilities have been preliminarily reviewed by a mortgage lender to determine a tentative loan amount.

VA Mortgage - a mortgage loan for qualified veterans, with lower downpayment requirements than conventional mortgages. These loans are guaranteed by the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Capture worlds of herbal flavor with a simple trip to the garden

For the gardener who likes to cook, nothing seems more rewarding than creating a delicious dish that's been seasoned with home-grown herbs.

Likewise, for anyone tasting such a dish, though they may not realize why, there is nothing more rewarding than a dish seasoned with home-grown herbs.

You don't have to travel the world to capture the taste of an authentic Italian or French dish. With your own herb garden, you merely can go as far as your own backyard to obtain the worldly flavors that will make every dish you cook memorable.

Whether you grow your herbs in window boxes, pots, hanging baskets or in their own unique area in the garden, you'll realize how amazing—and convenient—the experience of dining at home can be when you jazz up your cooking with the savory flavors of fresh herbs.

To make your herbs easily accessible, it's wise to prepare them ahead of time and store them for later use.

Even if you don't grow and dry your own herbs, you still can prepare homemade herb blends. Just make sure that you buy the ingredients at a store where you know there is a high turnover, says Elisabeth Lambert Ortiz, author of "Clearly Delicious" (DK), so that the herbs always are fresh.

Following are some simple herb-blend recipes that will taste like you traveled the world to get them, courtesy of "Clearly Delicious."

ITALIAN SEASONING
Makes about 1 cup

8 to 12 dried bay leaves
3 tablespoons each of dried oregano, parsley, thyme and sage
3 tablespoons each of freshly ground black pepper and paprika

1. Crush the dried bay leaves with a rolling pin until they are broken into quite fine pieces. Alternatively, use a mortar and pestle. Put them with all the remaining ingredients into a bowl and mix together well.
2. Pack into a sterilized jar. Seal the jar and label. The Italian seasoning now is ready to use.

BOUQUET GARNI
Makes enough for 12 cheesecloth bags

This French blend usually is tied together in a cheesecloth square when dried ingredients are used. The bundle always should contain a bay leaf, thyme and parsley. Sometimes other herbs, like chervil, savory or tarragon, are added. Celery leaves also can be used.

12 dried bay leaves
1/4 cup dried thyme

1/4 cup dried parsley
2 tablespoons dried celery leaves
1. Crush the bay leaves with a rolling pin until they are broken into quite fine pieces. Alternatively, use a mortar and pestle. Put them with the remaining herbs into a bowl and mix together.

2. Cut a double layer of cheesecloth into 3-inch squares. Put 1 tablespoon herb mixture on each square and tie up tightly into a bag with string. Pack the bags into sterilized jars. Seal the jars and label. The "bouquets garnis" now are ready to use.

ENGLISH MIXED HERBS
Makes about 1/2 cups

This is a wonderful complement for lamb, pork or stuffing. Rosemary, sage and marjoram also can be used in addition or as substitutes.

6 tablespoons each of dried parsley, chives, thyme and tarragon
1. Put all of the herbs into a bowl and mix together well.
2. Pack into a sterilized jar. Seal the jar and label. The mixed herbs now are ready to use.

How to seal and store herb and spice blends

Herb and spice blends should be stored in sterilized containers. The following information is courtesy of "Clearly Delicious" (DK), by Elisabeth Lambert Ortiz.

- To sterilize small jars for storing herbs and spices, first clean the jars in hot water with detergent, and rinse.
- Place the jars in a deep saucepan of water, bring to a boil and boil rapidly for 10 minutes. Then, using sterilized tongs, remove the jars and place them upside down on a thick kitchen towel to drain. Scald the lids.
- Preheat the oven to 225 F. Dry the sterilized jars in the oven, leaving the lids to dry thoroughly on a kitchen towel. Once the jars are dry, leave them to cool on a kitchen towel.
- Pour the herbs and spices into the sterilized jars, and seal the jars tightly with screw-top lids (corks trimmed to fit the necks of the jars also can be used).
- Keep the jars in a cool dark place, for up to four months to six months.

You don't want to mulch too much this summer

You probably know that it's a good idea to use mulch around landscape beds, but do you know the best way to apply it? With spring just around the corner, it may be tempting to go buy some bark and throw it around your shrubs. However, you need to know a little bit more about mulching before you begin your landscape project.

Studies show that the benefits of using mulch are numerous. Used properly, mulch, which can be a variety of materials like bark nuggets or stone, can eliminate weeds and grasses from your planting area.

Mulches also encourage root growth by keeping the soil moist and maintaining a uniform temperature for the soil. In addition, a good mulching system will reduce soil and bark runoff as well as conserve moisture.

While mulching is not difficult, it has to be done correctly. In fact, if too much mulch is used, it can suffocate shallow-rooted plants, cause waterlogged soil and cause conditions favorable for disease development.

A good way to avoid mulching problems is to start by using a landscape fabric. The fabric can be placed below any type of mulch, from bark to stone. Found in most places that carry garden supplies, fabric quickly is replacing black plastic as the product of choice to help eliminate weeds in landscape beds, around trees and other areas.

Unlike the old black plastic, some of today's fabrics, like WeedBlock® Landscape Fabric and Jobe's® Weed Control Fabric, allow water and air to flow through the material, letting nutrients get to plant roots. Plus, when you use these fabrics, you won't have any problems with mildew or bark runoff, like you would with plastic. Using a landscape fabric in your beds now will help your plants maintain moisture during the hot summer months, especially in drought areas.

In addition to blocking weeds, the fabrics are made with special U.V.-treated polyethylene that helps the fabric last longer even when exposed to direct sunlight.

While fabrics may seem like a fancy landscape tool, they're actually inexpensive and easy to use. With most of them, you just prepare your landscape bed (get rid of the weeds and grasses), spread the fabric over the plants, cut holes to the size needed, and pull the fabric down around the plant.

Once the landscape fabric is in place, secure it with landscape pegs, like Easy Gardener FabricPegs®, and spread your mulch of choice over it. It is best to put approximately 2 inches to 4 inches of mulch over the fabric. Remember, the benefits of mulching are many. As long as you're armed with a little bit of knowledge, some good landscape fabric and mulch, you're sure to be pleased with the results of your landscape beds.

The products can be purchased at just about any local garden center, hardware store, chain retailer or by calling (800) EASY-INC.

Keep landscape beds weed-free with Easy Gardener's Jobe's Weed Control Fabric.

Homeowners find safe ways to keep deer, rabbits away

As small towns grow bigger and new residential developments continue to infringe upon previously unpopulated areas, the incidence of deer and rabbit damage to homeowners' trees, flowers, and vegetable gardens is sky rocketing across the country. Commercial tree farms and orchards are dealing with the problem as well.

"As people move further into the country, our new homes start to encroach into the territory of deer and rabbits, not to mention elk, moose, antelope and other grazing animals," says Amar Grewal, president of ASG Consultants, makers of a non-toxic, completely natural product that repels animals from landscape foliage. "Our goal has been to produce an effective and cost conscious animal repellent that will keep the animals from eating the landscape of the homeowner without hurting the animals."

The product, exported from British Columbia, Canada, keeps grazing animals away from trees, shrubs, flowers and other food sources typically found in a homeowner's yard.

"We recently started using Repellex and the results were almost immediate," says David White, president of Inland Environments of Hilton Head Island, S.C. "It's been reported in recent national news coverage that the deer situation on Hilton Head Island has reached epidemic proportions, and I can't agree more."

"Beautiful blooming plants and shrubs are planted one day, and they are gone the next. When we tried this product, reports began coming into our office almost immediately of deer actually taking a few sniffs, turning up their noses and walking away," White said with a smile.

According to Grewal, it is important to use any animal repellent before the problem starts to get out of hand. He recommends applying liquid animal repellents when it is calm and there isn't a chance of rain for the next few days. This gives the product a chance to dry and set on the plants. Don't use repellents on vegetables or fruit that is intended for human consumption. If you spray an apple tree or a vegetable garden, the deer won't eat your fruits of labor, but you won't either.

Always wear gloves when applying repellents, and don't spray when it is windy. Even non-toxic repellents will leave a foul taste in your mouth if they come into contact with your skin. Don't touch your lips with your gloves, either.

It is important to note that repellents won't stop deer from rubbing their antlers on the trees to remove their velvet in the fall, although the odor may be strong enough to prompt the animals to choose another rubbing post. Grewal adds that because Repellex is effective on evergreens as well as deciduous trees, it will slow or stop the damage incurred by porcupines, too.

In addition to trees and shrubs, finding an effective animal repellent for flowers can be tough. Sweet flowers in the spring can be a treat for browsing animals, as Cullen Gardens and Miniature Village in Whitby, Ontario, Canada knows.

"We produce 70-80 thousand tulips for our spring festival, and we had a terrible time keeping the deer away from this food source," Garden Designer and Horticulturist Rowland Cave-Browne-Cave wrote in a letter. "We tried Repellex in a test area and instantly the deer stopped feeding in this area. With this, we applied it to all of the tulips and had little or no damage. And when I say little, I mean we had a 98 percent control on the feeding. Another great thing about this repellent is we only had to apply it once. It saved us a lot of time and money in that regard."

Repellex is available in the United States from Specialty Garden Supply, Inc. based in Colorado Springs. "We have carried many different products to deter predation from the deer and other grazing animals that can stunt the growth of trees and in many instances kill young trees," says Paul Warnecke, warehouse manager for Specialty Garden Supply. "Our Repellex customers are amazed at how quickly it works and how effective it is on the trees and flowers. For gopher or other under ground rodents that bother young trees, I don't know of another product that will keep the critters away without killing them." Latex-based Repellex will last up to four months. One quart provides a gallon of repellent spray when mixed, which will cover about 100 four to five foot trees. The tablets last about the same amount of time, and are used at a ratio of three to one tree. If you would like more information about Repellex, call Specialty Garden Supply at 1-800-635-8969 or visit their Web site at www.rmausa.com. Orders can be placed over the phone or the Internet and are shipped within 72 hours.

How To Survive The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Q: I have been employed in retail with (name withheld) for over three years. While I enjoy working with the customers and all, I sometimes find myself faced with a situation which causes me to bite my lip. I found out that when a situation such as this arises, killing a customer with kindness is not always the best way to handle things. A few weeks back, I had a customer that was rude as she could have been from the moment she walked in the door. I tried to accommodate her request for items that we did not have in stock. I offered, as is company policy, to check with other locations to see if I could locate the item for her. The item was not available at the first three stores in the nearest vicinity that I called. During this time other customers were in the store waiting their turn. This first customer demanded that I call other stores in other cities to try to locate this item. I asked if it was OK if she had some time, I would help some of the other customers who had now been waiting in line for over 15 minutes. I offered to take her name and phone number and to get right on it when I wasn't busy and that I would call her as soon as I located the item. This was not acceptable. She demanded that I take care of her first since she was there first. So as I continued to help her I apologized to the now three persons behind her in line, who were all well aware of what was going on. The woman now became irate and started yelling at me that I did not have to apologize to anyone for her. The next person in line turned to this woman and told her how incredibly rude she was being to me. The gentleman behind that person spoke up and told her what he thought and the woman behind him told her she was totally unreasonable. The first woman stormed out of the store stating "kiss your job goodbye". Two days later I was fired. No warning, no notice. I asked the company for the reason that I was fired and they stated that a customer called in with a complaint about being humiliated. Without even hearing my side of the story, I was let go. I tried to explain and they wouldn't hear of it. My question is, should I have done anything different? Is it possible for you to get them to hear my side? This is frustrating. Please help. L.B. Gurnee

A: I am sure that anyone who works in a customer service environment, whether it be in a retail organization or corporate, has at one time or another had to deal with a difficult customer. If they haven't yet, they will. Most companies train their employees on the subject and have guidelines for which a customer service person is supposed to follow in the event a difficult situation arises. In any case, there are limits as to what an employee should have to take before referring the difficult person to a higher authority. The only thing I may have done different would be to have informed your supervisor of this difficult situation, prior to the customer having had a chance to call and vent their anger first. It is always wise to document everything in a case such as this. After the woman stormed out of the store, the first thing I would have done is ask any of the patrons who were witness to this, if they could help you in the event she did follow through with her threat. The saying "the customer is always right", may not always be the case. I was able to contact the regional manager in your area and was told that according to your employee file, you have received many positive remarks from customers of your store stating what a helpful and courteous employee you are. The dismissal came from someone in personnel who admitted they may have responded too hastily without knowing the facts. As of the date of this print, I understand that you have now returned to your position, with a complete apology from corporate. Continued good luck to you.
